Ives: 'No Punches to Be Pulled'

Says State Win Would Be Vital

Rochester, Oct. 8 (AP) — Sen. Irving M. Ives, eager for a state election triumph that he says would encourage President Eisenhower to run again, declared today he would be "pulling no punches" to win.

Ives, running for governor on the Republican slate, ended a four-day upstate tour by denouncing Democratic campaign methods" and their incredible charges."

Before boarding a train for New York city last night, he told a news conference that a GOP victory in New York state "definitely would" encourage the President to seek a second term in 1956.

LATER IVES said in a statement, "the Democratic barrage of vituperation calls for an immediate reply. I intend to make it, pulling no punches." He speaks tonight on a statewide television hookup (CBS, 7:15-7:30, EST).

Winding up a 1,000-mile, 12-county swing by chartered bus, Ives also:

1. Told newsmen he was "not going to advocate anything" at the moment in regard to a state tax on bingo, if the game were legalized by a referendum.

2. Called his trip very successful — "even in territory where we weren't too popular some time back." Ives apparently referred to dairy sections and to areas near the St. Lawrence river, where he has been criticized for his Senate votes favoring flexible farm price supports and opposing the St. Lawrence seaway.

3. Termed the campaign "the worst rat race I've ever been in."

4. SAID HE WAS "not running out" on his previous stand favoring state development of additional hydroelectric power at Niagara Falls.

5. Contended in a speech before approximately 450 persons here, that Democratic legislators had "stubbornly and cynically opposed modernization of our road system."

Ives said the Democrats had introduced "hate and bigotry" into the campaign. "That stirred me to the point where I decided to take the TV on and try to get it straightened out," he added.

As for President, he said a Republican victory in the state would encourage Eisenhower to run again because of what Ives termed "the fact that he was being vindicated in his efforts in Washington."

However, he said, a Democratic victory would not be a repudiation of Eisenhower's administration but only "very discouraging to the President."

ON THE QUESTION of a bingo tax, Ives said he would consult with members of the Legislature before making any recommendations. He said the

Top Figures Speak Tonight

Senator Irving M. Ives, Republican candidate for governor of New York state, will speak at 7:15 o'clock tonight over WKNY-TV, the Ulster County Republican Central Committee announced today.

Also scheduled for tonight is a nationwide television broadcast from 9:30 to 10 o'clock by President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon. That telecast will also be carried by WKNY-TV.

GOP Looks To Ike for Shot in Arm

President Fights To Keep Congress

Denver, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower, pictured in a fighting mood in a tough battle, makes a "straight from the shoulder" nationwide television-radio appeal to American voters tonight to keep Republicans in the congressional drivers' seat.

The party's high command, privately concerned about the outcome of the November elections, is hoping the President's speech will—as Vice President Nixon puts it—provide "a tremendous shot in the arm" toward a GOP victory.

The Denver White House is billing the address as "the greatest single effort" of the campaign to keep the Democrats from recapturing control of Congress for the next two years.

TOWARD ACHIEVEMENT of that goal, the Republican national committee is footing the bill for putting Eisenhower's address on 158 TV channels and 534 radio stations from coast to coast.

The speech will be carried live over an augmented CBS-TV network and over the NBC and Mutual Radio networks at 9:30 p. m. EST. Other TV and radio networks will play back recorded versions at various times later in the evening.

The White House says the TV live coverage is the most extensive for any political speech in history.

Eisenhower and Nixon will speak from the stage of Denver's 6,000-seat municipal auditorium at a big political rally arranged by the Colorado GOP organization.

Murray Snyder, assistant White House press secretary, said that in addition to the general public, some 2,150,000 party workers and recruits will be tuned in to the address at about 26,500 "precinct workers day" rallies all around the country.

"THE PRESIDENT'S address will be his hardest hitting of the campaign and straight from the shoulder," said Snyder.

He added that it will be patterned after Eisenhower's Sept. 23 Hollywood Bowl speech in Los Angeles, which had drawn enthusiastic praise from Republican leaders. In that talk the President slugged hard for the first time in the campaign, saying a Democratic victory in November would lead to "stagnation" in government and a political "field day" in Washington.

On stage with the President and Nixon at the auditorium here tonight will be a group of Republican leaders traveling to Denver to point up one theme of the Eisenhower speech—that the chief executive is counting on a GOP-run 84th Congress to carry out his idea of partnership between the White House and the legislative branch.

SNYDER TOLD newsmen the President's address will place great stress on the importance he attaches to such partnership. Then GOP leaders will be intro-

State Asks More Time For Talks

Outlying Trustees Are Not in Favor

An expected negative vote by the Kingston Board of Education Thursday night on a state proposition for consolidating with outlying school districts was delayed in deference to a state Education Department official's request for a further meeting.

Formation of a Greater Kingston School District, as proposed by the state, was discussed Sept. 23 at a meeting called by the Kingston city board and attended by trustees of the outlying districts which now send pupils to the city high school on a tuition basis.

AT THAT MEETING, with one exception, the outlying district trustees indicated they favored continuing the present plan instead of consolidating into one large district with Kingston. Such consolidation, it was pointed out, would be subject to a vote of the qualified school district residents, who had in most cases previously indicated they opposed the plan by about a 10 to 1 majority.

On the basis of the Sept. 23 discussion, the city Board of Education had expected to vote against the consolidation plan at Thursday night's meeting.

A communication from Robert M. Coughlin of the State Department of Education was read however, in which he requested no action be taken until state education officials meet with the local board members for further conferences.

Coughlin suggested October 21 as the date of that conference.

IN THE DISCUSSION Thursday night, board members pointed out that the outlying school districts were expecting prompt action on the matter.

Robert H. Herzog, board president, suggested that a further contact be made with Coughlin in an attempt to have the state representatives come to Kingston "at their earliest convenience," rather than wait until Oct. 21. "The minute they come, we'll call a special meeting," he said.

Under the consolidation proposal, one large district would be formed, to be governed by a

Education Board Plans Salary Schedule Vote

Teachers in Kingston's public schools will have a chance to vote on whether they would rather be paid twice a month instead of once a month as at present, the Board of Education decided Thursday night.

Acting upon a letter from the Kingston Teachers' Federation requesting a plan to provide 20 pay checks instead of 10, the board authorized Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw to conduct a poll of all teachers to determine their preferences.

It was clear from the discussion that board members in all probability will make its final decision in accordance with the wishes of the majority.

Board President Robert H. Herzog suggested polling all the teachers, since only one group had expressed itself on the matter, and he felt that all teachers, whether members of the Federation or not, should be consulted.

He indicated, however, that "in all fairness to the teachers," the Board probably would act according to the wishes of the majority. He pointed out that, although there would be extra

Nine Police Are Clear of Charges

Nine Hudson policemen, under suspension for two years on charges of conspiring to protect gamblers and operators of houses of prostitution, have been exonerated and ordered restored to duty with back pay following a departmental trial before Dr. Roger C. Bliss, Hudson police commissioner.

The policemen are Sgt. William F. Egan, Sgt. Frederick P. Finck and Patrolmen Arthur M. Finch, William J. Spangburgh, Lloyd Hart, Lawrence F. McDonald, Joseph C. Pazera, William F. Fitzgerald and Joseph B. Arkison.

They were represented by R. Monell Herzberg, counsel, with N. LeVan Haver of Kingston as trial counsel. Charles Alonge, Hudson corporation counsel, was the prosecutor.

The trial of charges preferred by Police Chief John J. Sullivan lasted about 10 days in July and August.

By the decision of Police Commissioner Bliss, made known today, the men will be restored to duty without monetary loss. In other words, they will receive the difference between their regular pay and whatever they may have earned by taking other jobs during their two-year suspension. All pension rights are to be restored.

TRIAL COUNSEL Haver based the defense principally on the contention that the policemen were working under direct orders of their superiors, and that they were instructed to initiate no raids on gambling or prostitution houses except under direct orders of the chief of police or the detective sergeant.

The defendants in the case had been indicted in 1952, and were suspended without pay immediately following the indictment, in September of that year.

Paul Williams, special prosecutor for a Columbia county special investigation, turned material over to Police Commissioner Bliss and a departmental trial was ordered, with charges preferred by Police Chief Sullivan.

DEFENDANTS FINCH and Egan were restored to duty briefly in 1953 following acquittal of charge of perjury and accepting bribes, but were suspended again in November, 1953. In that trial, Haver represented Finch and Daniel Prior represented Egan.

In the charges that formed the basis for the trial this year, Chief Sullivan accused the nine of "conduct unbecoming an officer, conduct prejudicial to good order, efficiency and discipline, neglect of duty, violation of rules and regulations, making improper and unlawful entries in police blotter and incompetency."

In the specifications of the charges, Chief Sullivan alleged the defendants "unlawfully and corruptly conspired . . . among themselves and with others to aid, abet and assist gamblers and operators of houses of prostitution and their associates and employes in unlawfully carrying on in the city of Hudson, New York. . . ."

CHIEF DEFENSE witness in the departmental trial was Ben-

Four Dead Counted in West Flood

New Mexican Area Still Under Water

Rosewell, N. M., Oct. 8 (AP)—A fertile southeastern New Mexico valley, a week ago desperately in need of rain, remained awash today from its most devastating flood in years.

The savage waters, pouring off the eastern slopes of the Sacramento mountains, left four known dead, three presumed dead and seven missing in its wake. It hit, to some degree, half a dozen communities and an untold number of farms and ranches.

The damage cannot yet be estimated, but it will run in the millions.

Prolonged heavy rains sent the water tumbling into the Pecos valley bringing swollen rivers, creeks and arroyos bubbling into parts of Roswell, Carlsbad, Dexter, Hagerman, Artesia and Lake Arthur.

By NIGHTFALL last night, the flood threat had eased considerably and the streams of muddy water began to subside. But fresh rains in the mountainous area to the west of here were reported late last night and officials continued a close watch.

Severed communications, washed out highways and bridges, broken rail lines and livestock missing remained today for the cleanup.

The normally placid, and in recent days dry, Rio Hondo crested at 22 feet at its peak

Two Senate Inquiries Will Check Power Issue

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower's plan to send electric power from a private plant over Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) public power lines headed today into dual Senate inquiries which may run simultaneously.

The Atomic Energy Commission confirmed yesterday it has approved the form of the Dixon-Yates contract to put the politically controversial plan into operation.

Angry protest came from Sens. Langer (R-N.D.) and Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who disclosed plans to keep up their investigation of the project as members of the Senate antimonopoly subcommittee.

Langer and Kefauver said they will resume their now-recessed inquiry on Oct. 18, five days after the tentatively scheduled start of another review of the proposal next Wednesday by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. Langer and Kefauver said the AEC had not shown "proper respect" for their inquiry.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R.-Iowa), who will preside at the Atomic Committee's hearings, is due back today from a trip to South America. He may confirm or change the tentative hearing date.

Eisenhower's proposal has

THIS NEW IBM Poughkeepsie research laboratory to be dedicated Saturday at 2 p. m. is one of the most modern and functional buildings of its kind in the country. The U shaped structure adds 179,000 square feet of floor space to the company's existing laboratory facilities. The interior of the north and south wings is of a "module" design to permit maximum flexibility in the use of space. Laboratories in the south wing are used for basic research projects; those in the north wing for component development and testing. A connecting wing houses an auditorium, lounge, library, cafeteria, kitchen, shop and receiving department. In the event of stormy weather the outdoor program, including laying of the cornerstone by Thomas J. Watson, chairman of the IBM board of directors, will be canceled. Radio announcements every half hour, commencing at 7 a. m. will keep the public informed as to whether the event will be held.

Token working forces will be on hand in each department to demonstrate to visitors the type of work done by the company. The Family Day program will last from 1 to 4 p. m. Displays of Sprague products and their many uses in electric and electronic equipment will be on display in the plant cafeteria during Family Day, along with comprehensive exhibits of various departmental functions.

Oneonta Reading Is Noted as 18

Albany, Oct. 8 (AP)—Upstate New York scraped off the frost today after a clear, still night that pushed the mercury into the low 20s in some sections and down to 18 in the Oneonta area.

The weather bureau said the chilly performance would be a "record-breaker, or close to it" in most regions.

But temperatures in the 50s were forecast for today, with possibly some 60-degree readings in the western portion of the Hudson valley. Tonight, the bureau said, the mercury should stay slightly above freezing.

In readings late last night, Elmira and Rome reported 30 degrees, Poughkeepsie and Glens Falls, 31, and Rochester, Utica and Binghamton 33.

Overnight low readings included:

Oneonta 18; Saranac Lake 20; Elmira, Poughkeepsie and Bloomingdale 24; Glens Falls and Albany 25; Utica and Rome 27; Newburgh 28; Syracuse 29; and Massena, Watertown and Rochester 31.

Weather men explained that a big mass of cold air laid the groundwork for the cold snap. A clear sky with little wind did the rest.

Low spots — instead of the mountain regions—found it the coldest, forecasters said. The cold air drained, like water, into the low-lying areas.

Student, Man Die of Injuries

Peekskill, Oct. 8 (AP)—A Vassar College student and a New York city man died yesterday, and nine other persons were injured seriously, in a head-on collision on the Taconic State Parkway near here.

Succumbing at Peekskill Hospital shortly after the accident were Stephanie Byron, 20, of Darien, Conn., and Justo Comacho (no age).

Those listed as in serious condition at the hospital were:

SARAH SHRADY, 19, Englewood, N. J., driver of the car in which Miss Byron was riding and also a student at Vassar; Feliz Cruz of 749 Brook Ave., the Bronx; Santos Viera, Miguel Velez, Vincent Rosado, Jose Roman, Virginio Frankui, Pablo Viera, and Angel Rodriguez, all of Manhattan.

All of the men were en route to work at the Atlas Fibre Co. in Beacon. Their car was headed north while the two college girls were traveling south. The crash occurred on a curve where the parkway has no dividing mall.

Service Was Prompt

Cincinnati, Oct. 8 (AP)—All she wanted was a hamburger and a soft drink to go, the woman motorist told the drive-in car hop. So two paper bags appeared on the service ledge. The customer opened her packages at home. In one was the hamburger; in the other—no pop, but $100 in receipts. "Send my drink and you can have the money," she telephoned the restaurant. The restaurant didn't say who the woman was and didn't explain how the mix-up occurred. But service on the call was prompt.

Rt. 28 Overpass Still Unfinished

Prospects of completing the paving of the Route 28 overpass for the reported Oct. 26 opening of the New York State Thruway appeared dim today, but work was reported generally progressing along the way between here and Newburgh.

All four lanes have been completed between Hurley avenue and Whiteport and most of the work has been done from there southward to Newburgh. The section between Hurley avenue and the Route 28 interchange is ready for paving and it is expected to be in full progress next week.

SIX LANES OF CONCRETE are to be poured on the Route 28 overpass and only a small section has been done. This

Amnesia Victim Held by Police

Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 8 (AP)—Police turned to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., today in an effort to identify a well dressed boy of 12 to 14, apparently an amnesia victim, picked up yesterday by state police.

When the boy was taken today to Pittsfield General Hospital to be treated for a cold, nurses found a key—apparently an automobile key—in a sock and with it a key crest bearing the name of Canter's Motor Co., Poughkeepsie.

The boy stopped at a home in Egremont yesterday and asked for work but when the woman of the house asked his name he turned and walked away. The woman suggested to state police at the Lee barracks that they might check. Two troopers found the lad on Route 23.

They said he told them he could not remember beyond Wednesday night, when he had slept in a field for a time, then took shelter in an automobile.

Albany, Oct. 8 (AP)—Upstate New York scraped off the frost today after a clear, still night that pushed the mercury into the low 20s in some sections and down to 18 in the Oneonta area.

The weather bureau said the chilly performance would be a "record-breaker, or close to it" in most regions.

But temperatures in the 50s were forecast for today, with possibly some 60-degree readings in the western portion of the Hudson valley. Tonight, the bureau said, the mercury should stay slightly above freezing.

In readings late last night, Elmira and Rome reported 30 degrees, Poughkeepsie and Glens Falls, 31, and Rochester, Utica and Binghamton 33.

Overnight low readings included:

Oneonta 18; Saranac Lake 20; Elmira, Poughkeepsie and Bloomingdale 24; Glens Falls and Albany 25; Utica and Rome 27; Newburgh 28; Syracuse 29; and Massena, Watertown and Rochester 31.

Weather men explained that a big mass of cold air laid the groundwork for the cold snap. A clear sky with little wind did the rest.

Low spots — instead of the mountain regions—found it the coldest, forecasters said. The cold air drained, like water, into the low-lying areas.

Four Dead Counted in West Flood

New Mexican Area Still Under Water

Rosewell, N. M., Oct. 8 (AP)—A fertile southeastern New Mexico valley, a week ago desperately in need of rain, remained awash today from its most devastating flood in years.

The savage waters, pouring off the eastern slopes of the Sacramento mountains, left four known dead, three presumed dead and seven missing in its wake. It hit, to some degree, half a dozen communities and an untold number of farms and ranches.

The damage cannot yet be estimated, but it will run in the millions.

Prolonged heavy rains sent the water tumbling into the Pecos valley bringing swollen rivers, creeks and arroyos bubbling into parts of Roswell, Carlsbad, Dexter, Hagerman, Artesia and Lake Arthur.

By NIGHTFALL last night, the flood threat had eased considerably and the streams of muddy water began to subside. But fresh rains in the mountainous area to the west of here were reported late last night and officials continued a close watch.

Severed communications, washed out highways and bridges, broken rail lines and livestock missing remained today for the cleanup.

The normally placid, and in recent days dry, Rio Hondo crested at 22 feet at its peak

Two Senate Inquiries Will Check Power Issue

Washington, Oct. 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower's plan to send electric power from a private plant over Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) public power lines headed today into dual Senate inquiries which may run simultaneously.

The Atomic Energy Commission confirmed yesterday it has approved the form of the Dixon-Yates contract to put the politically controversial plan into operation.

Angry protest came from Sens. Langer (R-N.D.) and Kefauver (D-Tenn.), who disclosed plans to keep up their investigation of the project as members of the Senate antimonopoly subcommittee.

Langer and Kefauver said they will resume their now-recessed inquiry on Oct. 18, five days after the tentatively scheduled start of another review of the proposal next Wednesday by the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee. Langer and Kefauver said the AEC had not shown "proper respect" for their inquiry.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R.-Iowa), who will preside at the Atomic Committee's hearings, is due back today from a trip to South America. He may confirm or change the tentative hearing date.

Eisenhower's proposal has

Education Board Plans Salary Schedule Vote

Teachers in Kingston's public schools will have a chance to vote on whether they would rather be paid twice a month instead of once a month as at present, the Board of Education decided Thursday night.

Acting upon a letter from the Kingston Teachers' Federation requesting a plan to provide 20 pay checks instead of 10, the board authorized Superintendent of Schools Arthur J. Laidlaw to conduct a poll of all teachers to determine their preferences.

It was clear from the discussion that board members in all probability will make its final decision in accordance with the wishes of the majority.

Board President Robert H. Herzog suggested polling all the teachers, since only one group had expressed itself on the matter, and he felt that all teachers, whether members of the Federation or not, should be consulted.

He indicated, however, that "in all fairness to the teachers," the Board probably would act according to the wishes of the majority. He pointed out that, although there would be extra

Student, Man Die of Injuries

Peekskill, Oct. 8 (AP)—A Vassar College student and a New York city man died yesterday, and nine other persons were injured seriously, in a head-on collision on the Taconic State Parkway near here.

Succumbing at Peekskill Hospital shortly after the accident were Stephanie Byron, 20, of Darien, Conn., and Justo Comacho (no age).

Those listed as in serious condition at the hospital were:

SARAH SHRADY, 19, Englewood, N. J., driver of the car in which Miss Byron was riding and also a student at Vassar; Feliz Cruz of 749 Brook Ave., the Bronx; Santos Viera, Miguel Velez, Vincent Rosado, Jose Roman, Virginio Frankui, Pablo Viera, and Angel Rodriguez, all of Manhattan.

All of the men were en route to work at the Atlas Fibre Co. in Beacon. Their car was headed north while the two college girls were traveling south. The crash occurred on a curve where the parkway has no dividing mall.

Service Was Prompt

Cincinnati, Oct. 8 (AP)—All she wanted was a hamburger and a soft drink to go, the woman motorist told the drive-in car hop. So two paper bags appeared on the service ledge. The customer opened her packages at home. In one was the hamburger; in the other—no pop, but $100 in receipts. "Send my drink and you can have the money," she telephoned the restaurant. The restaurant didn't say who the woman was and didn't explain how the mix-up occurred. But service on the call was prompt.

Rt. 28 Overpass Still Unfinished

Prospects of completing the paving of the Route 28 overpass for the reported Oct. 26 opening of the New York State Thruway appeared dim today, but work was reported generally progressing along the way between here and Newburgh.

All four lanes have been completed between Hurley avenue and Whiteport and most of the work has been done from there southward to Newburgh. The section between Hurley avenue and the Route 28 interchange is ready for paving and it is expected to be in full progress next week.

SIX LANES OF CONCRETE are to be poured on the Route 28 overpass and only a small section has been done. This

Amnesia Victim Held by Police

Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 8 (AP)—Police turned to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., today in an effort to identify a well dressed boy of 12 to 14, apparently an amnesia victim, picked up yesterday by state police.

When the boy was taken today to Pittsfield General Hospital to be treated for a cold, nurses found a key—apparently an automobile key—in a sock and with it a key crest bearing the name of Canter's Motor Co., Poughkeepsie.

The boy stopped at a home in Egremont yesterday and asked for work but when the woman of the house asked his name he turned and walked away. The woman suggested to state police at the Lee barracks that they might check. Two troopers found the lad on Route 23.

They said he told them he could not remember beyond Wednesday night, when he had slept in a field for a time, then took shelter in an automobile.

THIS NEW IBM Poughkeepsie research laboratory to be dedicated Saturday at 2 p. m. is one of the most modern and functional buildings of its kind in the country. The U shaped structure adds 179,000 square feet of floor space to the company's existing laboratory facilities. The interior of the north and south wings is of a "module" design to permit maximum flexibility in the use of space. Laboratories in the south wing are used for basic research projects; those in the north wing for component development and testing. A connecting wing houses an auditorium, lounge, library, cafeteria, kitchen, shop and receiving department. In the event of stormy weather the outdoor program, including laying of the cornerstone by Thomas J. Watson, chairman of the IBM board of directors, will be canceled. Radio announcements every half hour, commencing at 7 a. m. will keep the public informed as to whether the event will be held.

Ordeal at Sea Told by Four

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 8 (AP)—A few cuts and bruises reminded two men and two women today of their ordeal after their yacht was knifed by a rescuing destroyer and sank in the turbulent Atlantic Ocean.

The story began late Wednesday when the 42-foot yacht Able Lady, bound from New York to Florida, encountered high winds and heavy seas off Virginia's eastern shore.

First the foresail blew out, said Dr. Esther Locke, wife of the yacht's owner, Dr. William P. Locke of Hyde Park, N. Y. "We couldn't put up any more sail...so we were blown 40 miles to sea."

During the night, leaks sprang up from heavy seas washing over the small schooner. Pumps were kept going. There was no radio to ask help.

"WE SAW A CARGO boat and set off flares," said Mrs. Locke, "but they did not come near."

The cruiser Juneau finally came on the scene—30 miles southeast of Cape Henry—and remained until the destroyer Laffey arrived. But the Laffey had trouble getting a line aboard the yacht.

"It was awful...terrible... the waves were about 30 feet high," Mrs. Locke related.

A big swell threw the bow of the destroyer against the yacht, and the small schooner went down almost before the four persons aboard—the other two were Dr. W. G. Thompson, a staff physician at Northern Dutchess Health Center, Rhinebeck and Ann Marlow of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—could don life jackets and leap into the heavy seas.

After about 20 minutes, crewmen from the destroyer were able to grab the two women and haul them aboard. The two men got aboard themselves.

Harriman Says Opponent Evaded Senate Issues

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Averell Harriman accuses his Republican opponent for governor, U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives, of what he termed "outright evasion" on his Senate votes on labor issues.

Harriman, Democratic-Liberal party candidate, says Ives voted three times for an "anti-labor" amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act.

In a statement issued at his campaign headquarters, Harriman said in part last night:

"In recent days my opponent has several times charged me with either ignorance or falsehood in declaring that he had voted for an anti-labor . . . amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act . . ."

"THE FACT IS," Harriman added, "that my opponent voted not once but on three separate and distinct occasions in favor of the States' Rights Amendment . . . an amendment commonly described by its critics as a 'union-busting' provision."

Other developments in the Democratic-Liberal party campaign for the Nov. 2 election:

1. The political nonpartisan committee of the State Federation of Labor (AFL) yesterday endorsed Harriman and other candidates on the Democratic-Liberal ticket.

2. The Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York (AFL) voted a similar endorsement.

3. ARTHUR LEVITT, Democratic-Liberal nominee for state comptroller and president of the New York City Board of Education, said in a television speech that economic conditions in New York state are getting worse "despite the rosy economic picture which the Republicans are attempting to paint."

4. Harriman, in a recorded radio talk broadcast from here, said the New York State and Federal Republican administrations have practiced "divisive tactics" and "set neighbor against neighbor." The talk was sponsored by the Liberal Party.

Harriman said Secy. of Agriculture Benson, in urging a cut in farm price supports, appealed to city people on the ground that they were paying too much money for their food and that the farmers were being paid too much."

"THE NET EFFECT of Benson's program," Harriman declared, "has been that the farmer gets much less for his products while the housewife is paying the highest prices in history.

"The welfare of our great state can only be enhanced by the partnership of all segments of our economy. When the farmer enjoys prosperity, he has the opportunity to purchase the products of the manufacturer and the merchant, industry is stimulated and our economy expands. Conversely, where we have an impoverished agriculture, labor suffers, the consumer suffers and our whole economy stagnates."

Harriman, who flew upstate yesterday for a one-day trip, told the convention of the New York State Conservation Council at Lake Placid that he would "fight for every tree" in the Adirondack preserve.

He said no tree should be cut down and no river dam should be built "if the move is not in interest of the preserve."

Harriman said he favors more campsites and trails, recreation development, flood control and water supplies in the Adirondacks.

Harriman said he has "never mentioned the question of bigotry," in talking at an upstate news conference about Republican charges that the Democrats are injecting bigotry and hate into the campaign.

GOP Looks . . .

duced to the TV and radio audiences.

They will have lunch at a downtown hotel today with Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall and White House staff members. Then at 5:30 p. m., MST, they will meet with the President for a general review of the political situation and a discussion of international problems.

About 20 minutes of tonight's TV-radio half hour program will be taken up by the Eisenhower address. Nixon will speak for about five minutes.

Two Senate . . .

been buffeted in public vs. private power debates in and out of Congress for months. He directed AEC to negotiate a contract with two privately owned power companies headed by Edgar H. Dixon and E. A. Yates.

The plan calls for the Dixon-Yates group to build a 107-million dollar steam generating plant at West Memphis, Ark., to deliver electricity to the TVA, to replace current which TVA delivers to AEC plants.

In a letter to Langer, the Antimonopoly subcommittee chairman, AEC General Manager Kenneth D. Nichols confirmed that the commission has approved the form of the proposed Dixon-Yates contract. But Nichols said AEC has neither signed the contract nor made any binding commitment to Dixon-Yates.

The letter also confirmed that AEC has asked the atomic committee to permit the contract to go into effect quickly. The law requires that such contracts may not take effect without a 30-day period of scrutiny before the joint committee. The committee, however, may waive this requirement but it has no authority to veto an AEC contract.

Langer and Kefauver were just resuming their hearings on the matter when Nichols' letter arrived. Kefauver dictated into the hearing record a statement that AEC had "completely ignored" two resolutions from himself and Langer urging the commission to hold up approval of the contract. He said this showed a lack of "proper respect" for the subcommittee. "It indicates to me that there is an effort at secrecy. . . and great anxiety to have this contract consummated before Congress convenes in January," he said.

Nichols' letter did not state when the AEC intends to sign the contract, nor did it disclose the terms of the contract, which it has declined to discuss publicly.

This year's event commemorates the Marian Year, in honor of the Virgin Mary.

Carrier Pigeon Detained by Dog

Carrier pigeons are reputed for knowing their way home and elsewhere, but one on a trip yesterday had an uncomfortable interlude here.

Police were notified at 2:46 p. m., that a dog was carrying a carrier in the Progress street area.

Officers George Dougherty and Gerald McCloskey investigated and reported that a band on the bird was tagged 465-52 with an "H" in a triangle. They found that the pigeon was still able to carry on, and released it.

Ives: 'No . . .

people would have "plenty of opportunity" to consider bingo and vote on it.

The senator said in his speech that measures to develop the State Thruway had been "opposed by every Democrat" in the Legislature for the last eight years.

"It is the sorreist kind of negative government," he continued. "What's more, it is a betrayal of the trust which voters placed in these Democrats when they sent them to Albany."

Completing his tour, Ives spoke briefly yesterday at Canandaigua, Geneva, and Seneca Falls—the last an unscheduled stop. At each point he urged a big registration for the Nov. 2 election and repeated that the Democratic ticket was controlled by Tammany Hall.

Spotters Report Falling Object

Report of an object, first resembling a kite, that fell from the sky today about 10 a. m. had police and sheriff's deputies scouring the wooded area in the vicinity of Pearl street extension, but up until press time their search was to no avail.

According to Mrs. G. Dewey Logan, supervisor of the Ground Observer Corps "sky watch post" atop the Governor Clinton Hotel, she was notified by observers concerning the object in the sky, and upon contacting the filter center, White Plains, instructions were to notify the police and sheriff.

Mrs. Logan said that two observers ready to sign off watch, Mrs. Lillian Salapatis and Mrs. Dorothy Jones, saw the object, also their two relief spotters, Mrs. Ann Adner and Mrs. Mabel Sahler.

First, they thought it was a kite, they told Mrs. Logan, until it began to descend southwest of the observation post. Indications were that it would land somewhere in the Pearl street extension sector.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, patrolmen and two detectives went to the area, also Sheriff Cluett Schantz and several deputies, but their search of the wooded section and other spots revealed nothing.

Mrs. Logan said the police agencies would continue their hunt, in view of the fact that the falling object was very plain as it descended.

Mrs. Logan, whose service as spotters' supervisor goes back to the days of World War 2, complimented the alert women and praised them as willing volunteers in the nation's defense program.

THE NEED for additional spotters was stressed by the supervisor, who said that men are needed for early morning hours.

"Today's incident is a concrete example that ground observers are essential to the nation's safety," Mrs. Logan said. "In these tense days, when war news crowds the newspapers and radio and television newscasts, such an incident could be the real thing.

"Thanks to our four alert women, we can feel safer, and know that the GOC is functioning effectively."

Suburbs Get Frost

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Frost nipped suburban areas for the first time this season during the night, and some spots in the metropolitan area experienced sub-freezing temperatures. However, the low reading for the city was only 42.4 degrees, registered at 6:20 a. m. today. The lowest mark on record for the date was 38 in 1876. The New York Weather Bureau said Poughkeepsie reported an overnight low of 24 degrees and Dover, N. J., logged 26. As near as Roosevelt Raceway in nearby Nassau county on Long Island, a 29-degree figure was recorded. A bright morning sun soon sent the mercury upward.

10,000 Are Homeless

Manila, Oct. 8 (AP)—A typhoon which ripped across the northern Philippines today left an estimated 10,000 to 15,000 persons homeless and flooded vast tracts of rice land, authorities reported. The storm struck with 100-mile-an-hour force on the east coast of Luzon Island but dropped to 70 miles an hour as it moved inland and finally whirled into the South China Sea. The Weather Bureau said the typhoon was building up again as it moved toward the China coast between Hong Kong and Hainan and soon would be generating winds of 100 miles an hour.

TO THE SOUTH, in the Dexter, Hagerman and Lake Arthur areas, it picked up momentum from waters pouring off the watershed into other streams and arroyos, but confined its damage mostly to the agricultural areas. At Artesia, farther to the south, it forced partial evacuation of one residential area but failed to touch downtown Artesia.

The Pecos river, into which the creeks and streams feed, ripped through Carlsbad taking boat docks, diving towers and other similar structures with it. But it stayed within its banks and started subsiding.

Palen Plant Not Leased Is Report

A report that the former H. W. Palen plant building on Broadway has been leased to a "novelty company", is denied. The factory building was purchased some time ago by the Roe Movers of Poughkeepsie. At the present time considerable work is being done in altering the the building. The furnace room is being "fireproofed" and other improvements are being made.

It is understood negotiations have been under way for a time for temporary leasing of the floor space but it was reported today no lease has been signed.

At the time of the purchase of the building by Roe Movers and Storage of Poughkeepsie, it was reported the plant would be leased to International Business Machines Corporation for storage purposes. The purchasers however said no definite plans had been made for use of the premises at that time.

Frost Rules Out Certain Crops

The season's first killing frost to hit this general area brought an abrupt but not unexpected end to the harvest of certain vulnerable crops.

Sweet corn, beans, tomatoes and similar crops were killed by the frost, but Farm Bureau personnel indicated that loss will not be anything unusual because the frost came a little later in the season than normal, and it came with sufficient warning.

SWEET CORN GROWERS for instance, had a chance to gather as much of their late crop as possible yesterday in anticipation of the frost. The bulk of the bean and tomato crop had already been harvested.

"Quite a few" green beans were planted for the late market, according to Robert Guzewich, associate agricultural agent, and these were lost. However, planting for the late market is always at best a speculation.

Actually, farmers had several days "grace" this year, in harvesting late crops. The "normal" time for the first killing frost in the area is from October 3 to 5, Guzewich pointed out.

Some crops, such as broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower, were not hurt by last night's frost.

Court Rules on Roche

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—A court ruled today that John F. Roche, 27, accused of four murders, is mentally capable of standing trial. General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein held that Roche is "not in such a state of idiocy, imbecility or insanity as to be incapable of understanding charge, indictment, and proceeding, or of making his defense." In making his ruling, Goldstein confirmed a section of report made by two psychiatrists who examined Roche.

Ordeal at Sea Told by Four

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 8 (AP)—A few cuts and bruises reminded two men and two women today of their ordeal after their yacht was knifed by a rescuing destroyer and sank in the turbulent Atlantic Ocean.

The story began late Wednesday when the 42-foot yacht Able Lady, bound from New York to Florida, encountered high winds and heavy seas off Virginia's eastern shore.

First the foresail blew out, said Dr. Esther Locke, wife of the yacht's owner, Dr. William P. Locke of Hyde Park, N. Y. "We couldn't put up any more sail...so we were blown 40 miles to sea."

During the night, leaks sprang up from heavy seas washing over the small schooner. Pumps were kept going. There was no radio to ask help.

"WE SAW A CARGO boat and set off flares," said Mrs. Locke, "but they did not come near."

The cruiser Juneau finally came on the scene—30 miles southeast of Cape Henry—and remained until the destroyer Laffey arrived. But the Laffey had trouble getting a line aboard the yacht.

"It was awful...terrible... the waves were about 30 feet high," Mrs. Locke related.

A big swell threw the bow of the destroyer against the yacht, and the small schooner went down almost before the four persons aboard—the other two were Dr. W. G. Thompson, a staff physician at Northern Dutchess Health Center, Rhinebeck and Ann Marlow of Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—could don life jackets and leap into the heavy seas.

After about 20 minutes, crewmen from the destroyer were able to grab the two women and haul them aboard. The two men got aboard themselves.

Harriman Says Opponent Evaded Senate Issues

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Averell Harriman accuses his Republican opponent for governor, U. S. Sen. Irving M. Ives, of what he termed "outright evasion" on his Senate votes on labor issues.

Harriman, Democratic-Liberal party candidate, says Ives voted three times for an "anti-labor" amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act.

In a statement issued at his campaign headquarters, Harriman said in part last night:

"In recent days my opponent has several times charged me with either ignorance or falsehood in declaring that he had voted for an anti-labor . . . amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act . . ."

"THE FACT IS," Harriman added, "that my opponent voted not once but on three separate and distinct occasions in favor of the States' Rights Amendment . . . an amendment commonly described by its critics as a 'union-busting' provision."

Other developments in the Democratic-Liberal party campaign for the Nov. 2 election:

1. The political nonpartisan committee of the State Federation of Labor (AFL) yesterday endorsed Harriman and other candidates on the Democratic-Liberal ticket.

2. The Central Trades and Labor Council of Greater New York (AFL) voted a similar endorsement.

3. ARTHUR LEVITT, Democratic-Liberal nominee for state comptroller and president of the New York City Board of Education, said in a television speech that economic conditions in New York state are getting worse "despite the rosy economic picture which the Republicans are attempting to paint."

4. Harriman, in a recorded radio talk broadcast from here, said the New York State and Federal Republican administrations have practiced "divisive tactics" and "set neighbor against neighbor." The talk was sponsored by the Liberal Party.

Harriman said Secy. of Agriculture Benson, in urging a cut in farm price supports, appealed to city people on the ground that they were paying too much money for their food and that the farmers were being paid too much."

"THE NET EFFECT of Benson's program," Harriman declared, "has been that the farmer gets much less for his products while the housewife is paying the highest prices in history.

"The welfare of our great state can only be enhanced by the partnership of all segments of our economy. When the farmer enjoys prosperity, he has the opportunity to purchase the products of the manufacturer and the merchant, industry is stimulated and our economy expands. Conversely, where we have an impoverished agriculture, labor suffers, the consumer suffers and our whole economy stagnates."

Harriman, who flew upstate yesterday for a one-day trip, told the convention of the New York State Conservation Council at Lake Placid that he would "fight for every tree" in the Adirondack preserve.

He said no tree should be cut down and no river dam should be built "if the move is not in interest of the preserve."

Harriman said he favors more campsites and trails, recreation development, flood control and water supplies in the Adirondacks.

Harriman said he has "never mentioned the question of bigotry," in talking at an upstate news conference about Republican charges that the Democrats are injecting bigotry and hate into the campaign.

GOP Looks . . .

duced to the TV and radio audiences.

They will have lunch at a downtown hotel today with Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall and White House staff members. Then at 5:30 p. m., MST, they will meet with the President for a general review of the political situation and a discussion of international problems.

About 20 minutes of tonight's TV-radio half hour program will be taken up by the Eisenhower address. Nixon will speak for about five minutes.

Two Senate . . .

been buffeted in public vs. private power debates in and out of Congress for months. He directed AEC to negotiate a contract with two privately owned power companies headed by Edgar H. Dixon and E. A. Yates.

The plan calls for the Dixon-Yates group to build a 107-million dollar steam generating plant at West Memphis, Ark., to deliver electricity to the TVA, to replace current which TVA delivers to AEC plants.

In a letter to Langer, the Antimonopoly subcommittee chairman, AEC General Manager Kenneth D. Nichols confirmed that the commission has approved the form of the proposed Dixon-Yates contract. But Nichols said AEC has neither signed the contract nor made any binding commitment to Dixon-Yates.

The letter also confirmed that AEC has asked the atomic committee to permit the contract to go into effect quickly. The law requires that such contracts may not take effect without a 30-day period of scrutiny before the joint committee. The committee, however, may waive this requirement but it has no authority to veto an AEC contract.

Langer and Kefauver were just resuming their hearings on the matter when Nichols' letter arrived. Kefauver dictated into the hearing record a statement that AEC had "completely ignored" two resolutions from himself and Langer urging the commission to hold up approval of the contract. He said this showed a lack of "proper respect" for the subcommittee. "It indicates to me that there is an effort at secrecy. . . and great anxiety to have this contract consummated before Congress convenes in January," he said.

Nichols' letter did not state when the AEC intends to sign the contract, nor did it disclose the terms of the contract, which it has declined to discuss publicly.

This year's event commemorates the Marian Year, in honor of the Virgin Mary.

Carrier Pigeon Detained by Dog

Carrier pigeons are reputed for knowing their way home and elsewhere, but one on a trip yesterday had an uncomfortable interlude here.

Police were notified at 2:46 p. m., that a dog was carrying a carrier in the Progress street area.

Officers George Dougherty and Gerald McCloskey investigated and reported that a band on the bird was tagged 465-52 with an "H" in a triangle. They found that the pigeon was still able to carry on, and released it.

Ives: 'No . . .

people would have "plenty of opportunity" to consider bingo and vote on it.

The senator said in his speech that measures to develop the State Thruway had been "opposed by every Democrat" in the Legislature for the last eight years.

"It is the sorreist kind of negative government," he continued. "What's more, it is a betrayal of the trust which voters placed in these Democrats when they sent them to Albany."

Completing his tour, Ives spoke briefly yesterday at Canandaigua, Geneva, and Seneca Falls—the last an unscheduled stop. At each point he urged a big registration for the Nov. 2 election and repeated that the Democratic ticket was controlled by Tammany Hall.

Spotters Report Falling Object

Report of an object, first resembling a kite, that fell from the sky today about 10 a. m. had police and sheriff's deputies scouring the wooded area in the vicinity of Pearl street extension, but up until press time their search was to no avail.

According to Mrs. G. Dewey Logan, supervisor of the Ground Observer Corps "sky watch post" atop the Governor Clinton Hotel, she was notified by observers concerning the object in the sky, and upon contacting the filter center, White Plains, instructions were to notify the police and sheriff.

Mrs. Logan said that two observers ready to sign off watch, Mrs. Lillian Salapatis and Mrs. Dorothy Jones, saw the object, also their two relief spotters, Mrs. Ann Adner and Mrs. Mabel Sahler.

First, they thought it was a kite, they told Mrs. Logan, until it began to descend southwest of the observation post. Indications were that it would land somewhere in the Pearl street extension sector.

Police Chief Raymond Van Buren, patrolmen and two detectives went to the area, also Sheriff Cluett Schantz and several deputies, but their search of the wooded section and other spots revealed nothing.

Mrs. Logan said the police agencies would continue their hunt, in view of the fact that the falling object was very plain as it descended.

Mrs. Logan, whose service as spotters' supervisor goes back to the days of World War 2, complimented the alert women and praised them as willing volunteers in the nation's defense program.

THE NEED for additional spotters was stressed by the supervisor, who said that men are needed for early morning hours.

"Today's incident is a concrete example that ground observers are essential to the nation's safety," Mrs. Logan said. "In these tense days, when war news crowds the newspapers and radio and television newscasts, such an incident could be the real thing.

"Thanks to our four alert women, we can feel safer, and know that the GOC is functioning effectively."

Suburbs Get Frost

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Frost nipped suburban areas for the first time this season during the night, and some spots in the metropolitan area experienced sub-freezing temperatures. However, the low reading for the city was only 42.4 degrees, registered at 6:20 a. m. today. The lowest mark on record for the date was 38 in 1876. The New York Weather Bureau said Poughkeepsie reported an overnight low of 24 degrees and Dover, N. J., logged 26. As near as Roosevelt Raceway in nearby Nassau county on Long Island, a 29-degree figure was recorded. A bright morning sun soon sent the mercury upward.

10,000 Are Homeless

Manila, Oct. 8 (AP)—A typhoon which ripped across the northern Philippines today left an estimated 10,000 to 15,000 persons homeless and flooded vast tracts of rice land, authorities reported. The storm struck with 100-mile-an-hour force on the east coast of Luzon Island but dropped to 70 miles an hour as it moved inland and finally whirled into the South China Sea. The Weather Bureau said the typhoon was building up again as it moved toward the China coast between Hong Kong and Hainan and soon would be generating winds of 100 miles an hour.

Frost Rules Out Certain Crops

The season's first killing frost to hit this general area brought an abrupt but not unexpected end to the harvest of certain vulnerable crops.

Sweet corn, beans, tomatoes and similar crops were killed by the frost, but Farm Bureau personnel indicated that loss will not be anything unusual because the frost came a little later in the season than normal, and it came with sufficient warning.

SWEET CORN GROWERS for instance, had a chance to gather as much of their late crop as possible yesterday in anticipation of the frost. The bulk of the bean and tomato crop had already been harvested.

"Quite a few" green beans were planted for the late market, according to Robert Guzewich, associate agricultural agent, and these were lost. However, planting for the late market is always at best a speculation.

Actually, farmers had several days "grace" this year, in harvesting late crops. The "normal" time for the first killing frost in the area is from October 3 to 5, Guzewich pointed out.

Some crops, such as broccoli, cabbage, and cauliflower, were not hurt by last night's frost.

Court Rules on Roche

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—A court ruled today that John F. Roche, 27, accused of four murders, is mentally capable of standing trial. General Sessions Judge Jonah J. Goldstein held that Roche is "not in such a state of idiocy, imbecility or insanity as to be incapable of understanding charge, indictment, and proceeding, or of making his defense." In making his ruling, Goldstein confirmed a section of report made by two psychiatrists who examined Roche.

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, district manager of the Social Security Administration, submits the following article on the provisions of the Social Security law:

Two of the most significant provisions in the 1954 amendments to the social security law are those relating to farmers. Approximately 5,700,000 persons who earn a living in agricultural work will be affected by these changes. On January 1, 1955, an estimated 3,600,000 self-employed farmers, and about 2,100,000 more hired farm workers will automatically be brought under the old age and survivors insurance program. This marks a great forward step toward economic security for farm families.

FARMERS HAVE LONG needed protection for themselves and their families against income loss which results when they become old or die. They have now gained the same type of protection that wage workers and persons self-employed in cities and towns have under social security. The value of this protection can hardly be overstated. The survivors protection alone will be a boon to farm families. For example, assuming that a farmer regularly reports $3,600 a year in income under social security, the value of the insurance protection that he will have for a surviving widow and two young children is as much as $35,000. Few farmers could buy private insurance protection of such value.

A STUDY UNDERTAKEN jointly by the Bureau of Public Assistance and the Bureau of Old-Age and Survivors Insurance in March 1950 revealed the need for better economic protection for farm families. That survey showed a high percentage of farmers on the old-age assistance rolls. Over 30 per cent of the aged men getting public assistance in April 1949, and who had been employed in work not covered by social security, reported that "farming self-employment" accounted for the greater part of their earlier work. This was a higher percentage on old-age assistance than for any other of the uncovered occupational groups. About 80 percent of the old-age assistance recipients at that time had been self-employed farmers had at least one-half or more of their total work after 1936 devoted to farm operation. If farm operators had been covered under the old law, nearly 93 per cent of these aged workers would have earned old-age and survivors insurance protection for themselves and their dependent families.

ALTHOUGH THE FARM operator and the farm worker whom he hires will not begin to earn their social security until January 1, 1955, it is not too early for the farm operator to learn about his rights and obligations under the new law. Since the self-employed farmer will be covered under the law for the first time, he may have some questions as to what the program actually is.

Social Security, or as it is known by its more complete name—old-age and survivors insurance—is a program whereby the working person earns his future financial protection. Employment or self-employment under the social security program for a certain amount of time will provide the farmer with a monthly payment in his old age. In addition, it will furnish his surviving family with monthly payments after his death.

The Kingston District Office servicing Ulster and Sullivan counties is located in the Central Post Office Bldg.,—their telephone number is 532. Booklets on the 1954 Amendments to the Social Security Act are available upon request.

WASTING TALENT

Speaking of brains and business firms (and this isn't Anti-Industry Day), a one-time professional teacher recently made a provocative speech which can stand a bit of repeating.

Psychologist E. L. Stromberg, who now is employed in industry, thinks that most of our business concerns are foolishly wasting much of their talent. Many intelligent workers, he says, are barred from responsible jobs—jobs they could easily handle—simply because they did not go to college.

Fully half of our population, he says, is brainy enough to go through college—but only a small percentage has actually had the chance. Yet "company policy" often assumes that, unless a man has a sheepskin, "creative thinking and problem solving" both are beyond his power.

In the viewpoint of Dr. Stromberg: "This waste of brain power is one of the great detriments from which management needs to free itself by recognizing that maturity, experience and growing knowledge exist in every man—not alone in the college man."

That sentence is quite a mouthful, but it still makes plenty of sense. We are all for more education, and so is ex-teacher Stromberg. And there surely are millions of jobs which demand a specialized training that can only be had in a college.

But making the sheepskin a fetish is a costly—and stupid—mistake.

HAIL THE CHAMPIONS!

Mudville, on the day that Casey struck out, was a center of joy and celebration compared to Cleveland on the afternoon that the New York Giants won the fourth straight game of the 1954 World Series. The gloom in Cleveland was reflected in all American league cities and in the homes of Indian fans throughout the country.

The ease with which the Giants turned back the Indians was shocking. Cleveland had broken the all-time record for number of victories in any American league season. It had outstanding pitchers, batters who had been the terror of opponents all year. But the Giants treated them as no Indians have been treated since that band was swindled out of Manhattan Island for a few dollars and a couple of barrels of cheap whiskey back in old days.

The Giants played as champions are supposed to play. They possessed that extra something that allowed them to take advantage of every opportunity. They never seemed to doubt for a moment that they would win the series.

So hail to the champions. As for the Indians and the American league fans—well, you can't win every time. There is always next year.

ULSTER'S TAX LEVIES DECREASED

A study of county taxes by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, a statewide private taxpayers organization, reveals that real property tax levies for 1954 decreased in Ulster county while the total taxes levied on real property by the 57 counties increased.

The Survey's figures showed that real property tax levies in Ulster county decreased by $81,224 for 1954. The tax for this year was $1,815,247 as compared to $1,896,471 in 1953.

The figures announced in the Survey's study include the general county tax level, taxes levied to pay court and stenographers expenses and chargebacks. The chargebacks which are included are for the costs of specific services rendered by the county to certain areas within the county for those services considered to be county functions.

Property owners are reminded that county budgets now being prepared will determine their tax bills in 1955.

The polar bears and seals had better watch what they say. The Russians announced that they have installed a microphone at the North Pole. The Pole is uninhabited, and though planes sometimes pass over it, none stops except for a forced landing. Obviously the Russian intention must be to listen in on the wild life, if any. This cannot be much, as the Pole is situated on a small island.

However, the bears had better be careful. They may be suspected by the Russians because they are white and not Red.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

LEAKS

In a colloquy between Senator Herman Welker and Senator Guy M. Gillette, the following came out:

"Mr. Welker. I believe the distinguished and able Senator from Iowa, when he was chairman of the subcommittee, discovered one source of the 'leaks.' He heard someone approach the door. The Senator from Iowa tiptoed up, jerked open the door, and then discovered, as I recall, someone who was at least more than casually interested in our executive hearings. Is that a correct statement?

"Mr. Gilette. Mr. President, that is a correct statement."

It would seem that a government could so organize itself that neither in the Executive nor the Legislative Branch would there be leaks. Apparently all governments are having the same troubles. The French are in the midst of a scandal arising from leaks to the Communists by officials on a high level. No matter how the MacLean-Burgess situation is covered up by the British, the fact stands that in spite of their long traditions and high quality civil service, leaks have occurred in the British Foreign Office and it was a British subject, Dr. Klaus Fuchs, who leaked the atom bomb to the Rosenberg Spy Ring. Dr. Otto John who, as early as June 1952, was known to be a Soviet Secret Agent and also a correspondent of British Socialists, was in a central position to leak to Russia out of Bonn. Jules Moch, the French Socialist, was reported as long as three years ago to be opposed to the American concept of the European community, to favor neutralism; yet he has been in a position to be familiar with the details of Allied operations.

Every newspaperman, who deals with such matters, does have the experience that much of his stock-in-trade is his ability to get confidential information from government officials. It used to be an unbreakable rule that what was given in confidence was kept in confidence and was only used as background but was not published. These days such information is leaked with the object of hurting an opponent. Sometimes this goes too far into the realm of what should not be told and sometimes includes documentation that should be withheld. What does one do when into his possession, from an authoritative person, comes a document which is of public significance but is rubber-stamped "confidential" or some such thing?

Complaints are made about Senator McCarthy that he, chairman of a permanent committee of the Senate, appointed to investigate the Executive Branch of the Government, appealed to government employes for information. What about those Senators and Representatives who leak the proceedings of Executive Sessions of Congressional Committees? What about public officials who leak the most confidential data in their offices to favored newspapermen in a barter for preferred treatment?

Senator Gillette caught someone listening at a closed door, something which is not justified by any moral code. In the colloquy which I have quoted, neither Senator Gillette nor Senator Welker named the eavesdropper, which they might have done to advantage, but such a miserable person is not as guilty as the Senator who makes a deal to tell what goes on at such meetings. He is guilty of gross impropriety.

One wonders about many things like that. What is the difference between a monitored telephone call and a wiretap? From a moral standpoint, there can be none unless both parties are aware of the fact. The monitored telephone call may or may not be legal; it is definitely immoral. Senator Herman Welker believes that the monitored telephone call is a crime. Of it, he said:

"Yet we stand here in these great temples of marble, where people get the odor of marble and think they are great, and we see no resolution of censure introduced in regard to those who tap wires when the other person has not been notified."

He is so right about that, but nothing will be done because so many who could do something about it use wiretaps and monitor calls. The law requires a beep when the call is taken down by an instrument. What is the difference between taking it down mechanically or by a stenographer's hand? There are all sorts of devices on the market for such purposes and they are so inexpensive that there must be quite a number of buyers of them.

TREATMENT OF ACUTE ALCOHOLISM

Anyone who has had to manage an alcoholic during the immediate stage of his alcoholism knows what an extremely difficult job it is to do. The high degree of intoxication, excitement, confusion and incoordination of both mind and muscles present makes the acute alcoholic an intense problem to everyone concerned. It can be readily seen how this problem is multiplied in the treatment of a large number of alcoholics at one time.

Dr. R. W. E. Spreng, in the Journal of Nervous and Mental Diseases states that at the institution with which he is connected, the majority of patients are in an acute alcoholic state on arrival and if there should be a wave of admissions within a short period, the need for individual attention in each case places a severe strain on the medical and nursing staffs. A patient in a state of acute alcoholism cannot just be left alone to his own devices. Accordingly it was felt that if this period of acute symptoms could be shortened even slightly, pressure would be relieved on both the personnel and the various physical facilities available.

Dr. Spreng therefore tried using mephenesin (Tolserol) which as a depressant or quieting drug acing on the spinal cord. Because of its site of action it has been used chiefly in states of spasm of the muscles, one such condition being alcoholic tremor.

The patients were divided into two groups — the control group and the test group. Those in the control group received the treatment usually employed at the institution. Those in the test group received the same general treatment with the addition of mephenesin. In the test group, the drug was administered by mouth in 1 gram dosage (two tablets each containing ½ gram) every two hours, except during the night, for a total of ten doses.

What was the result of this treatment with mephensin, in addition to the routine hospital treatment? The group receiving this drug responded on the average about one day sooner than did those in the group receiving only routine treatment.

Now the gaining of one day in returning a person to his normal self may not sound like too much but when we consider that the services of doctors, nurses, orderlies and others are released that much sooner to deal with the emergency of fresh cases coming in, it is a great saving. How much it means to the individual to come to his senses that much sooner—who can say?

Larsen's Washington News Notebook

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

Washington (NEA) — The White House is working hard to clean up one of the most incredible messes in federal administration: the way Uncle Sam handles his army of employes working in foreign countries.

There are 85,000 U. S. citizens and 96,000 noncitizens on America's overseas payroll, not including the military.

They are employed by at least 29 different agencies. A White House spokesman admits that there are probably more which haven't been found yet.

For these workers there are 40 independent systems for figuring salaries, 10 variations in allowances and 18 different recruitment systems.

On top of that they all have separate personnel programs. Within just the Foreign Operations Administration, which accounts for only 5.6 of the foreign workers, there are three separate categories of employes: Foreign Service Reserve, Foreign Service staff and Point 4. And within Point 4 there are three separate personnel systems.

A MAJOR EFECT OF THIS confusion is serious bickering, jealousy and noncooperation among the various U. S. missions abroad.

"This friction exists not only among employes but between administrative groups and lowers United States prestige abroad," says Henry DuFlon, the White House expert stuck with the very difficult task of trying to straighten out the mess.

It's admitted by many foreign observers that this state of affairs is one of the reasons why the U. S. has consistently lost "face" and prestige abroad in spite of the billions being spent on foreign aid.

The men and women involved would be less than human if they didn't react to some of the inequities in the system. Some of the seemingly most petty items, like who shall carry a diplomatic-type passport which gives special privileges, are among the worst irritants.

The diplomatic passport gives one official freedom from arrest for minor offenses and permission to bring a car into the country without duty. Yet another official of another agency, with just as important a job, who doesn't have one, is at the mercy of local police for small infractions of the law and pays a big price to bring his car into the country.

THE PAY AND PRIVILEGES as between military officers and State Department people abroad is a major source of friction.

"They get extra cost-of-living allowances while we get the same pay as we got in the States," says an air force officer stationed in Tokyo. "Our so-called fringe benefits like commissaries and PXs are supposed to make up the difference but the State Department people use our commissaries, too," he claims.

A gripe of other agencies against the military overseas is that they carve too-plush lives for themselves, with fancy houses and extra services.

Varying social opportunities is another area of trouble. You hear the career diplomats called "snobs" by employes in other agencies. "But a person who is in a country to advise on garbage disposal problems just doesn't understand all the implications of protocol," a career diplomat points out.

There's more to this trouble than hard feelings. It gives Uncle Sam a clumsy, costly and inflexible overseas operation.

BECAUSE AN OFFICIAL of one agency cannot transfer easily to another one the U. S. is unable to make most efficient use of its limited number of experts in foreign service. An expert with the U. S. Information Agency, for instance, cannot transfer to the staff of FOA and maintain his career status without first climbing over a mountain of red tape.

It's easier in many cases to hire a new man, train him and send him abroad than transfer an experienced man. In some cases a person has to travel all the way back to Washington and go through a complicated rigmarole just to return to the city abroad and handle a new assignment.

In practically all of these cases the trouble is not the fault of the personnel people. They are saddled with a complex set of laws which give them no choice but to keep the wheels of red tape going.

DuFlon recognizes the legal difficulties involved and has made a small start at correcting some of the inequalities. He helped draft a bill now law, which equalizes home leave among overseas employes. He wrote a bill, also law now, which created a kind of foreign service for agricultural experts sent abroad.

DuFlon does not think it feasible to create a unified single personnel program for handling all foreign employes. He plans to have ready for the next Congress several measures aimed at ironing out the worst trouble spots.

American Lives Lost in Korea Due to Loose Security, Is Present Suspicion

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 8—The evidence of loose security among the governments allied with the United States during the Korean War points now suspiciously to the grave possibility that American lives indeed were sacrificed in that conflict by the transmission of important military information to the enemy.

General Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, and General Willoughby, who was in charge of the intelligence operations of the Far Eastern command, and in fact General MacArthur himself now say that the Communist Chinese must have known that they would not be bombed or their planes pursued if they attacked United Nations forces in Korea.

The testimony of Dean Acheson, who was secretary of state during the fateful period when American military strategy was being developed in consultation with the allies, did not seem as significant when given as it is today in view of the revelations of a spy ring in Paris and the treachery of MacLean and Burgess in the British foreign office disclosed since 1951.

For the story told on June 1, 1951, by Mr. Acheson—who, of course, had no suspicion of any looseness in the security situation among our allies—appears in the light of what has happened since to show how difficult, if not impossible, was the role of the United States, as military agent of the United Nations, in Korea.

Senator Russell of Georgia, Democrat, who was chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee at the time of the MacArthur hearings, asked Mr. Acheson about "the details of the so-called hot pursuit finding by the members of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff where they recommended that our planes be permitted to pursue the planes of the Communist aggressors over the Manchurian border." Here is what Mr. Acheson said in reply:

"Some days prior to the 13th of November 1950, there were discussions between the Department of Defense and the Department of State, as the result of which the Department of State transmitted to our embassies in certain countries a message saying that at an early date we might permit United States aircraft to defend themselves in the airspace over the Yalu river, to the extent of permitting hot pursuit of enemy aircraft up to two or three minutes flying time over enemy territory. . . .

"Those telegrams resulted in our embassies taking up with the governments of those countries, this question. We did not ask them to get any expression of views, but informed them that they might, in a short time, have to ask these governments about this matter.

"They discussed the question with those governments, and in all cases they got strongly negative responses from the governments, saying they thought it was dangerous, and not desirable . . .

"Shortly after that some of these governments in their turn came to our embassies and again stated that if we were thinking about this, they wanted to register their view that it was unwise and undesirable. I transmitted the views of these governments to the secretary of defense in a letter dated November 23, 1950, and in another letter which I believe was dated November 24, 1950.

"After considering these responses, it was determined between the Department of State and the Department of Defense that it was not desirable to go further with this suggestion."

Senator Bridges asked: "What was the date when the Chinese Communists came in?"

"They actually attacked, I believe," said Mr. Acheson, "on the 26th of November. They had been known to be in Korea, I think, since perhaps the 24th of October, certainly in the early days of November, we began to get reports from the commander in chief, Far East, that units were in North Korea."

So it appears that the decision to attack on a large scale was made after its allies in the UN told the United States emphatically that our forces could not reconnoiter by air to see what the Chinese Communist troops were doing and could not fight back by air to bomb the supply lines in Manchuria from which the Communist Chinese troops were being supported.

The importance from a security standpoint of the military decisions of those autumn days of 1950 is emphasized in the following passage from the same testimony:

"Chairman Russell: You stated you took it up with six countries. I will not ask which they were. But I had understood there were some 13 nations who had contributed troops to the United Nations forces in Korea. Why was it confined to six nations rather than to consult with all of them?

"Secretary Acheson: I have tried to refresh my memory on that and I do not know. The six countries which were picked out were prominent and representative, and I think it was probably a view of not spreading the security too widely. . . .

"Chairman Russell: In other words, it had a highly secret security rating at that time?

"Secretary Acheson: Yes, sir; this would be a military operation which you would not wish to inform the enemy about."

But General MacArthur, General Van Fleet and General Willoughby insist that the enemy did learn somehow, presumably from an embassy source abroad, and shaped its policy—a general attack—because it knew the United Nations forces would not use airpower as a military weapon to make a proper and normal military defense of the area.

The result? More than 140,000 American casualties. And still the Europeans and not a few Americans continue to pooh-pooh the espionage menace and talk about the insignificant number of enrolled Communists in this country. It took only one Klaus Fuchs to transmit the facts about the atomic bomb. It doubtless took only one spy in the French or British Foreign Office to tell the Communists they were safe in risking their big army on the Korean peninsula, with the long supply line into Manchuria immune from attack. What a tragic way to conduct a war! And what a warning to America that her sons may face in the next war operation, big or little, the same hazards of treachery among our allies because they are not as security conscious as they should be.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 7—The fictional armed revolution of "Philip Dru, Administrator," which expressed the "ethical and political faith" of Colonel E. M. House, was a protest against the arrogance of massive wealth. Woodrow Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt consulted House as a political sage and, between them, put through most of his program of circumventing the Constitution. The period was 1911 when a nickel bought a loaf of good bread or a quart of milk with cream on top. A soupbone or knee-joint of beef also was a nickel and calves' liver was free, in discreet amounts, as food for the customer's cat. The 1911 dollar was worth about four of today's dollars in purchasing power.

Colonel House, who became the political architect of the Wilson and Roosevelt-Truman administrations, was a rich man himself by inheritance. He was sent abroad for his preliminary education and later sent to a private school in New Haven and to Cornell. He never had to work a day in his life.

Yet, like Roosevelt, who was similarly subsidized all his life, House cried out against the power of wealth, a seductive note to the ears of the object of their patronizing contempt known as the Common Man.

It is true that massive wealth was ruthless and arrogant then. But the political powers and adventurers of today, some of them represented by "foundations" left over from the 'nineties and the first 20 years of this century, are equally impudent and smug in their assumption of a duty to make over the United States, indeed the world, according to a master plan whose origins are all European. Oddly, much of this stuff is from Marx and much of it comes from Andrew Carnegie and the idle bureaucrats of the foundations which exist beyond reach of public opinion, law and even Congress.

Twice in the last two sessions of Congress, committees of the House, directed to investigate foundations, were thwarted by organized opposition. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, who was chairman of the latest unsuccessful inquiry, complained that a Democratic minority member openly sabotaged the investigation. His description of the conduct of this interference with the function of the committee makes Joe McCarthy's most vigorous conduct seem demure.

There is absolutely no doubt that a "job" was done on this committee for the purpose of concealing information which would have aroused public indignation. The frustration of two committees preserved at least for a time the hidden power of an invisible government.

It is ironic to find a man who inherited an incalculable fortune from stock market manipulations, palmed off as railroad development, so high in the councils of the Democratic party that he is nominated for governor of New York. Yet, Averell Harriman is one of the richest men in the country and his record in lend-lease during the war reflects a concept of the American Constitution and the role of the United States in the world which are closer to the Carnegie design than to the traditional understanding of Americans of more representative background. Harriman's old man has been represented as a "builder" of railroads. Actually he only traded shrewdly in stocks, backed by Schiff and Warburg, both from Hamburg. The work was done by ignorant Irish and hunkie greenhorns and Harriman himself, if he knows anything about it, must admit that they were neither overpaid nor lavishly pampered in their boxcar quarters and their hobo campfires.

Great as they are, Harriman's inherited wealth and the power thereof, alone, would be unimportant. But when it is considered that Sidney Hillman's union now boasts of a treasury of more than $200 million, that David Dubinsky's treasury is about three-fourths of that, and that the treasuries and welfare funds of many other unions aggregate billions, the power of arrogant wealth over the American people becomes more apparent and alarming. Dubinsky's union of needleworkers, most of them in low income brackets and subject to seasonal lack of income, has the effrontery to maintain its own foreign relations division operated by two unregenerate Communists of the anti-Kremlin faction called Lovestoneites.

The Central Intelligence Agency of the national government collaborates with Dubinsky's foreign agents in meddling in European affairs. Their work is covered by official secrecy and is frankly held to be none of our business. We may surmise the results of that work, however,

WASTING TALENT

Speaking of brains and business firms (and this isn't Anti-Industry Day), a one-time professional teacher recently made a provocative speech which can stand a bit of repeating.

Psychologist E. L. Stromberg, who now is employed in industry, thinks that most of our business concerns are foolishly wasting much of their talent. Many intelligent workers, he says, are barred from responsible jobs—jobs they could easily handle—simply because they did not go to college.

Fully half of our population, he says, is brainy enough to go through college—but only a small percentage has actually had the chance. Yet "company policy" often assumes that, unless a man has a sheepskin, "creative thinking and problem solving" both are beyond his power.

In the viewpoint of Dr. Stromberg: "This waste of brain power is one of the great detriments from which management needs to free itself by recognizing that maturity, experience and growing knowledge exist in every man—not alone in the college man."

That sentence is quite a mouthful, but it still makes plenty of sense. We are all for more education, and so is ex-teacher Stromberg. And there surely are millions of jobs which demand a specialized training that can only be had in a college.

But making the sheepskin a fetish is a costly—and stupid—mistake.

HAIL THE CHAMPIONS!

Mudville, on the day that Casey struck out, was a center of joy and celebration compared to Cleveland on the afternoon that the New York Giants won the fourth straight game of the 1954 World Series. The gloom in Cleveland was reflected in all American league cities and in the homes of Indian fans throughout the country.

The ease with which the Giants turned back the Indians was shocking. Cleveland had broken the all-time record for number of victories in any American league season. It had outstanding pitchers, batters who had been the terror of opponents all year. But the Giants treated them as no Indians have been treated since that band was swindled out of Manhattan Island for a few dollars and a couple of barrels of cheap whiskey back in old days.

The Giants played as champions are supposed to play. They possessed that extra something that allowed them to take advantage of every opportunity. They never seemed to doubt for a moment that they would win the series.

So hail to the champions. As for the Indians and the American league fans—well, you can't win every time. There is always next year.

ULSTER'S TAX LEVIES DECREASED

A study of county taxes by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, a statewide private taxpayers organization, reveals that real property tax levies for 1954 decreased in Ulster county while the total taxes levied on real property by the 57 counties increased.

The Survey's figures showed that real property tax levies in Ulster county decreased by $81,224 for 1954. The tax for this year was $1,815,247 as compared to $1,896,471 in 1953.

The figures announced in the Survey's study include the general county tax level, taxes levied to pay court and stenographers expenses and chargebacks. The chargebacks which are included are for the costs of specific services rendered by the county to certain areas within the county for those services considered to be county functions.

Property owners are reminded that county budgets now being prepared will determine their tax bills in 1955.

The polar bears and seals had better watch what they say. The Russians announced that they have installed a microphone at the North Pole. The Pole is uninhabited, and though planes sometimes pass over it, none stops except for a forced landing. Obviously the Russian intention must be to listen in on the wild life, if any. This cannot be much, as the Pole is situated on a small island.

However, the bears had better be careful. They may be suspected by the Russians because they are white and not Red.

LEAKS

In a colloquy between Senator Herman Welker and Senator Guy M. Gillette, the following came out:

"Mr. Welker. I believe the distinguished and able Senator from Iowa, when he was chairman of the subcommittee, discovered one source of the 'leaks.' He heard someone approach the door. The Senator from Iowa tiptoed up, jerked open the door, and then discovered, as I recall, someone who was at least more than casually interested in our executive hearings. Is that a correct statement?

"Mr. Gilette. Mr. President, that is a correct statement."

It would seem that a government could so organize itself that neither in the Executive nor the Legislative Branch would there be leaks. Apparently all governments are having the same troubles. The French are in the midst of a scandal arising from leaks to the Communists by officials on a high level. No matter how the MacLean-Burgess situation is covered up by the British, the fact stands that in spite of their long traditions and high quality civil service, leaks have occurred in the British Foreign Office and it was a British subject, Dr. Klaus Fuchs, who leaked the atom bomb to the Rosenberg Spy Ring. Dr. Otto John who, as early as June 1952, was known to be a Soviet Secret Agent and also a correspondent of British Socialists, was in a central position to leak to Russia out of Bonn. Jules Moch, the French Socialist, was reported as long as three years ago to be opposed to the American concept of the European community, to favor neutralism; yet he has been in a position to be familiar with the details of Allied operations.

Every newspaperman, who deals with such matters, does have the experience that much of his stock-in-trade is his ability to get confidential information from government officials. It used to be an unbreakable rule that what was given in confidence was kept in confidence and was only used as background but was not published. These days such information is leaked with the object of hurting an opponent. Sometimes this goes too far into the realm of what should not be told and sometimes includes documentation that should be withheld. What does one do when into his possession, from an authoritative person, comes a document which is of public significance but is rubber-stamped "confidential" or some such thing?

Complaints are made about Senator McCarthy that he, chairman of a permanent committee of the Senate, appointed to investigate the Executive Branch of the Government, appealed to government employes for information. What about those Senators and Representatives who leak the proceedings of Executive Sessions of Congressional Committees? What about public officials who leak the most confidential data in their offices to favored newspapermen in a barter for preferred treatment?

Senator Gillette caught someone listening at a closed door, something which is not justified by any moral code. In the colloquy which I have quoted, neither Senator Gillette nor Senator Welker named the eavesdropper, which they might have done to advantage, but such a miserable person is not as guilty as the Senator who makes a deal to tell what goes on at such meetings. He is guilty of gross impropriety.

One wonders about many things like that. What is the difference between a monitored telephone call and a wiretap? From a moral standpoint, there can be none unless both parties are aware of the fact. The monitored telephone call may or may not be legal; it is definitely immoral. Senator Herman Welker believes that the monitored telephone call is a crime. Of it, he said:

"Yet we stand here in these great temples of marble, where people get the odor of marble and think they are great, and we see no resolution of censure introduced in regard to those who tap wires when the other person has not been notified."

He is so right about that, but nothing will be done because so many who could do something about it use wiretaps and monitor calls. The law requires a beep when the call is taken down by an instrument. What is the difference between taking it down mechanically or by a stenographer's hand? There are all sorts of devices on the market for such purposes and they are so inexpensive that there must be quite a number of buyers of them.

A MAJOR EFECT OF THIS confusion is serious bickering, jealousy and noncooperation among the various U. S. missions abroad.

"This friction exists not only among employes but between administrative groups and lowers United States prestige abroad," says Henry DuFlon, the White House expert stuck with the very difficult task of trying to straighten out the mess.

It's admitted by many foreign observers that this state of affairs is one of the reasons why the U. S. has consistently lost "face" and prestige abroad in spite of the billions being spent on foreign aid.

The men and women involved would be less than human if they didn't react to some of the inequities in the system. Some of the seemingly most petty items, like who shall carry a diplomatic-type passport which gives special privileges, are among the worst irritants.

The diplomatic passport gives one official freedom from arrest for minor offenses and permission to bring a car into the country without duty. Yet another official of another agency, with just as important a job, who doesn't have one, is at the mercy of local police for small infractions of the law and pays a big price to bring his car into the country.

THE PAY AND PRIVILEGES as between military officers and State Department people abroad is a major source of friction.

"They get extra cost-of-living allowances while we get the same pay as we got in the States," says an air force officer stationed in Tokyo. "Our so-called fringe benefits like commissaries and PXs are supposed to make up the difference but the State Department people use our commissaries, too," he claims.

A gripe of other agencies against the military overseas is that they carve too-plush lives for themselves, with fancy houses and extra services.

Varying social opportunities is another area of trouble. You hear the career diplomats called "snobs" by employes in other agencies. "But a person who is in a country to advise on garbage disposal problems just doesn't understand all the implications of protocol," a career diplomat points out.

There's more to this trouble than hard feelings. It gives Uncle Sam a clumsy, costly and inflexible overseas operation.

BECAUSE AN OFFICIAL of one agency cannot transfer easily to another one the U. S. is unable to make most efficient use of its limited number of experts in foreign service. An expert with the U. S. Information Agency, for instance, cannot transfer to the staff of FOA and maintain his career status without first climbing over a mountain of red tape.

It's easier in many cases to hire a new man, train him and send him abroad than transfer an experienced man. In some cases a person has to travel all the way back to Washington and go through a complicated rigmarole just to return to the city abroad and handle a new assignment.

In practically all of these cases the trouble is not the fault of the personnel people. They are saddled with a complex set of laws which give them no choice but to keep the wheels of red tape going.

DuFlon recognizes the legal difficulties involved and has made a small start at correcting some of the inequalities. He helped draft a bill now law, which equalizes home leave among overseas employes. He wrote a bill, also law now, which created a kind of foreign service for agricultural experts sent abroad.

DuFlon does not think it feasible to create a unified single personnel program for handling all foreign employes. He plans to have ready for the next Congress several measures aimed at ironing out the worst trouble spots.

American Lives Lost in Korea Due to Loose Security, Is Present Suspicion

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 8—The evidence of loose security among the governments allied with the United States during the Korean War points now suspiciously to the grave possibility that American lives indeed were sacrificed in that conflict by the transmission of important military information to the enemy.

General Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, and General Willoughby, who was in charge of the intelligence operations of the Far Eastern command, and in fact General MacArthur himself now say that the Communist Chinese must have known that they would not be bombed or their planes pursued if they attacked United Nations forces in Korea.

The testimony of Dean Acheson, who was secretary of state during the fateful period when American military strategy was being developed in consultation with the allies, did not seem as significant when given as it is today in view of the revelations of a spy ring in Paris and the treachery of MacLean and Burgess in the British foreign office disclosed since 1951.

For the story told on June 1, 1951, by Mr. Acheson—who, of course, had no suspicion of any looseness in the security situation among our allies—appears in the light of what has happened since to show how difficult, if not impossible, was the role of the United States, as military agent of the United Nations, in Korea.

Senator Russell of Georgia, Democrat, who was chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee at the time of the MacArthur hearings, asked Mr. Acheson about "the details of the so-called hot pursuit finding by the members of the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff where they recommended that our planes be permitted to pursue the planes of the Communist aggressors over the Manchurian border." Here is what Mr. Acheson said in reply:

"Some days prior to the 13th of November 1950, there were discussions between the Department of Defense and the Department of State, as the result of which the Department of State transmitted to our embassies in certain countries a message saying that at an early date we might permit United States aircraft to defend themselves in the airspace over the Yalu river, to the extent of permitting hot pursuit of enemy aircraft up to two or three minutes flying time over enemy territory. . . .

"Those telegrams resulted in our embassies taking up with the governments of those countries, this question. We did not ask them to get any expression of views, but informed them that they might, in a short time, have to ask these governments about this matter.

"They discussed the question with those governments, and in all cases they got strongly negative responses from the governments saying they thought it was dangerous, and not desirable . . .

"Shortly after that some of these governments in their turn came to our embassies and again stated that if we were thinking about this, they wanted to register their view that it was unwise and undesirable. I transmitted the views of these governments to the secretary of defense in a letter dated November 23, 1950, and in another letter which I believe was dated November 24, 1950.

"After considering these responses, it was determined between the Department of State and the Department of Defense that it was not desirable to go further with this suggestion."

Senator Bridges asked: "What was the date when the Chinese Communists came in?"

"They actually attacked, I believe," said Mr. Acheson, "on the 26th of November. They had been known to be in Korea, I think, since perhaps the 24th of October, certainly in the early days of November, we began to get reports from the commander in chief, Far East, that units were in North Korea."

So it appears that the decision to attack on a large scale was made after its allies in the UN told the United States emphatically that our forces could not reconnoiter by air to see what the Chinese Communist troops were doing and could not fight back by air to bomb the supply lines in Manchuria from which the Communist Chinese troops were being supported.

The importance from a security standpoint of the military decisions of those autumn days of 1950 is emphasized in the following passage from the same testimony:

"Chairman Russell: You stated you took it up with six countries. I will not ask which they were. But I had understood there were some 13 nations who had contributed troops to the United Nations forces in Korea. Why was it confined to six nations rather than to consult with all of them?

"Secretary Acheson: I have tried to refresh my memory on that and I do not know. The six countries which were picked out were prominent and representative, and I think it was probably a view of not spreading the security too widely. . . .

"Chairman Russell: In other words, it had a highly secret security rating at that time?

"Secretary Acheson: Yes, sir; this would be a military operation which you would not wish to inform the enemy about."

But General MacArthur, General Van Fleet and General Willoughby insist that the enemy did learn somehow, presumably from an embassy source abroad, and shaped its policy—a general attack—because it knew the United Nations forces would not use airpower as a military weapon to make a proper and normal military defense of the area.

The result? More than 140,000 American casualties. And still the Europeans and not a few Americans continue to pooh-pooh the espionage menace and talk about the insignificant number of enrolled Communists in this country. It took only one Klaus Fuchs to transmit the facts about the atomic bomb. It doubtless took only one spy in the French or British Foreign Office to tell the Communists they were safe in risking their big army on the Korean peninsula, with the long supply line into Manchuria immune from attack. What a tragic way to conduct a war! And what a warning to America that her sons may face in the next war operation, big or little, the same hazards of treachery among our allies because they are not as security conscious as they should be.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 7—The fictional armed revolution of "Philip Dru, Administrator," which expressed the "ethical and political faith" of Colonel E. M. House, was a protest against the arrogance of massive wealth. Woodrow Wilson and F. D. Roosevelt consulted House as a political sage and, between them, put through most of his program of circumventing the Constitution. The period was 1911 when a nickel bought a loaf of good bread or a quart of milk with cream on top. A soupbone or knee-joint of beef also was a nickel and calves' liver was free, in discreet amounts, as food for the customer's cat. The 1911 dollar was worth about four of today's dollars in purchasing power.

Colonel House, who became the political architect of the Wilson and Roosevelt-Truman administrations, was a rich man himself by inheritance. He was sent abroad for his preliminary education and later sent to a private school in New Haven and to Cornell. He never had to work a day in his life.

Yet, like Roosevelt, who was similarly subsidized all his life, House cried out against the power of wealth, a seductive note to the ears of the object of their patronizing contempt known as the Common Man.

It is true that massive wealth was ruthless and arrogant then. But the political powers and adventurers of today, some of them represented by "foundations" left over from the 'nineties and the first 20 years of this century, are equally impudent and smug in their assumption of a duty to make over the United States, indeed the world, according to a master plan whose origins are all European. Oddly, much of this stuff is from Marx and much of it comes from Andrew Carnegie and the idle bureaucrats of the foundations which exist beyond reach of public opinion, law and even Congress.

Twice in the last two sessions of Congress, committees of the House, directed to investigate foundations, were thwarted by organized opposition. Carroll Reece, of Tennessee, who was chairman of the latest unsuccessful inquiry, complained that a Democratic minority member openly sabotaged the investigation. His description of the conduct of this interference with the function of the committee makes Joe McCarthy's most vigorous conduct seem demure.

There is absolutely no doubt that a "job" was done on this committee for the purpose of concealing information which would have aroused public indignation. The frustration of two committees preserved at least for a time the hidden power of an invisible government.

It is ironic to find a man who inherited an incalculable fortune from stock market manipulations, palmed off as railroad development, so high in the councils of the Democratic party that he is nominated for governor of New York. Yet, Averell Harriman is one of the richest men in the country and his record in lend-lease during the war reflects a concept of the American Constitution and the role of the United States in the world which are closer to the Carnegie design than to the traditional understanding of Americans of more representative background. Harriman's old man has been represented as a "builder" of railroads. Actually he only traded shrewdly in stocks, backed by Schiff and Warburg, both from Hamburg. The work was done by ignorant Irish and hunkie greenhorns and Harriman himself, if he knows anything about it, must admit that they were neither overpaid nor lavishly pampered in their boxcar quarters and their hobo campfires.

Great as they are, Harriman's inherited wealth and the power thereof, alone, would be unimportant. But when it is considered that Sidney Hillman's union now boasts of a treasury of more than $200 million, that David Dubinsky's treasury is about three-fourths of that, and that the treasuries and welfare funds of many other unions aggregate billions, the power of arrogant wealth over the American people becomes more apparent and alarming. Dubinsky's union of needleworkers, most of them in low income brackets and subject to seasonal lack of income, has the effrontery to maintain its own foreign relations division operated by two unregenerate Communists of the anti-Kremlin faction called Lovestoneites.

The Central Intelligence Agency of the national government collaborates with Dubinsky's foreign agents in meddling in European affairs. Their work is covered by official secrecy and is frankly held to be none of our business. We may surmise the results of that work, however,

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Oct. 8—Members of the Olive Legion Post and Auxiliary at their monthly meeting in Ashokan Monday welcomed Ernest Gardner, past commander of the post. He was presented with his badge of office as new county vice-commander. Everett Coty, Napanoch, past district commander, gave an interesting report on the convalescent and vacation aspects of the Legion mountain camp at Tupper Lake and Commander Joe Friedberg of the Woodstock post also talked about the camp and on other matters of interest to the members present. County Commander Donald Duignan, Marlborough, gave an instructive talk on Americanism.

Still other features of the Legion meeting were a report by Carl Bremmer, the local post's delegate to Boys' State, apropos of the Ashokan youth's experiences at the convention which is held at Colgate University, Hamilton. Carl was elected treasurer of Boys' State. Introduced to the gathering were Alice Stevens, new president of the auxiliary, and Mabel Weidner, chaplain.

Edwin Swenson who has been ill at his Shokan home several weeks is now able to resume his duties in part as manager of the Woodstock Bank.

The Rev. Ben Scholten who with his wife, the former Ruth Palmer, recently returned from a vacation trip to California, has assumed the pastorate of the Shokan Reformed Church. The Rev. Mr. Scholten and wife will continue to make their home in Kingston. Sunday morning preaching service now begins at 11 o'clock instead of at nine as was the case during the summer season.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm have returned home from a trip to Europe in the course of which they spent several weeks with Thord's father in Stockholm.

Shokan, Oct. 8 — The Olive Men's Square Club, now in process of formation, has been granted use of the Legion Hall at Ashokan for its meetings. The club at present is headed by Reginald Davis, chairman. The move is in line with the policy of Commander Simeon Trowbridge and other staff officers of the Olive Post to encourage all worth while community activities.

Mrs. M. Howland, her son, Elmer, and daughter, Addie, of New York have been spending a few days at the Longyear House on the old state road.

Mrs. Edward Adsit has returned to her home in the village center after having been a patient at Kingston Hospital for a week.

Mrs. Herbert Shultis, long time resident of Chichester, called on friends in the twin villages Saturday.

Huge Kater of the Boiceville hill road is building a home on a lot bought of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gulnack. The dwelling is one of three new ones in that immediate section overlooking the east basin of the Ashokan.

Victor Vaster of Woodhaven, L. I., was a caller in the village Monday. He has some acreage between Rossmann's boarding house and Toran's Hook.

A current topic of conversation, as well as a subject of considerable speculation, in the lower village is the daily presence of wild animals on the Legion building, or former District No. 4 schoolhouse, grounds. One of the readers in that neighborhood has observed in one day, the interesting goings-on of: deer, raccoon, possum, woodchuck and squirrel, together with numbers of large and small birds (could be they have heard about the veterans' never-failing well which has an outside tap for public use).

Marvin Greene who was taken to a hospital last week, returned home Tuesday. Marvin has been ill several weeks.

Five Promotions Made 156th Guard

Five promotions have been announced for National Guardsmen in Headquarters Battery, 156th Field Artillery Battalion by the commanding officer, Lt. Col. Frank W. Harkin.

Clarence Nichols, 46 Sterling street, is now a sergeant first class.

Charles Francis Riley, RFD. 1 Saugerties, has advanced to corporal.

David Henry Whittaker, 304 Greenkill avenue, corporal.

Kenneth John Kurtz, Shandaken, corporal.

Robert Garey Frish, Highland, private first class.

The promotions were made as of October 1, Col. Harkin said.

Nichols, a native of Kingston, enlisted on December 15, 1949. He is employed at IBM, Poughkeepsie. His assignment as mess steward of Headquarters Battery is one of the most important functions within the command. He was highly commended during summer training at Camp Drum.

Riley, employed at Ulster Foundary here, who resides with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Charles Riley in Saugerties, is first cook in Headquarters Battery. He enlisted in 1952.

Whittaker, who signed up last February after a tour of duty in the army, is in the mess section. He is employed at Hiltebrant Dry Dock Company, Connelly.

Kurtz, who enlisted in 1952, is a vehicle mechanic. His civilian job is in in Denning's Garage, Phoenicia. He travels here from that community once a week for drill.

Frish belongs to the fire direction center team of the battalion. He enlisted on October 26, 1953. At present he is associated with his father in business in New Paltz.

SHOKAN NEWS

Shokan, Oct. 8—Members of the Olive Legion Post and Auxiliary at their monthly meeting in Ashokan Monday welcomed Ernest Gardner, past commander of the post. He was presented with his badge of office as new county vice-commander. Everett Coty, Napanoch, past district commander, gave an interesting report on the convalescent and vacation aspects of the Legion mountain camp at Tupper Lake and Commander Joe Friedberg of the Woodstock post also talked about the camp and on other matters of interest to the members present. County Commander Donald Duignan, Marlborough, gave an instructive talk on Americanism.

Still other features of the Legion meeting were a report by Carl Bremmer, the local post's delegate to Boys' State, apropos of the Ashokan youth's experiences at the convention which is held at Colgate University, Hamilton. Carl was elected treasurer of Boys' State. Introduced to the gathering were Alice Stevens, new president of the auxiliary, and Mabel Weidner, chaplain.

Edwin Swenson who has been ill at his Shokan home several weeks is now able to resume his duties in part as manager of the Woodstock Bank.

The Rev. Ben Scholten who with his wife, the former Ruth Palmer, recently returned from a vacation trip to California, has assumed the pastorate of the Shokan Reformed Church. The Rev. Mr. Scholten and wife will continue to make their home in Kingston. Sunday morning preaching service now begins at 11 o'clock instead of at nine as was the case during the summer season.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm have returned home from a trip to Europe in the course of which they spent several weeks with Thord's father in Stockholm.

Shokan, Oct. 8 — The Olive Men's Square Club, now in process of formation, has been granted use of the Legion Hall at Ashokan for its meetings. The club at present is headed by Reginald Davis, chairman. The move is in line with the policy of Commander Simeon Trowbridge and other staff officers of the Olive Post to encourage all worth while community activities.

Mrs. M. Howland, her son, Elmer, and daughter, Addie, of New York have been spending a few days at the Longyear House on the old state road.

Mrs. Edward Adsit has returned to her home in the village center after having been a patient at Kingston Hospital for a week.

Mrs. Herbert Shultis, long time resident of Chichester, called on friends in the twin villages Saturday.

Huge Kater of the Boiceville hill road is building a home on a lot bought of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gulnack. The dwelling is one of three new ones in that immediate section overlooking the east basin of the Ashokan.

Victor Vaster of Woodhaven, L. I., was a caller in the village Monday. He has some acreage between Rossmann's boarding house and Toran's Hook.

A current topic of conversation, as well as a subject of considerable speculation, in the lower village is the daily presence of wild animals on the Legion building, or former District No. 4 schoolhouse, grounds. One of the readers in that neighborhood has observed in one day, the interesting goings-on of: deer, raccoon, possum, woodchuck and squirrel, together with numbers of large and small birds (could be they have heard about the veterans' never-failing well which has an outside tap for public use).

Marvin Greene who was taken to a hospital last week, returned home Tuesday. Marvin has been ill several weeks.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS

The Hallmark of Circulation Integrity

AUDITED PAID CIRCULATION ABC

In the same way that STERLING on silver signifies a standard of known value, so is this A.B.C. emblem a symbol of FACTS about the circulations of newspapers and periodicals. It is the emblem of membership in the Audit Bureau of Circulations* and is assurance to advertisers that the circulations of member publications are measured, audited and reported in accordance with the rigid standards that have been mutually approved and adopted by advertisers and publishers. Here's why our membership in the A.B.C. is important to our advertisers and ourselves: At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough inspection and audit of our circulation records. The results of this exacting audit show: how much circulation we have; where it goes; how it was obtained; and many other FACTS that advertisers need as a sound basis for their advertising investments. This audited information is published by the Bureau in easy-to-read A.B.C. reports which are available to our advertisers on request.

ABC Report

*The Audit Bureau of Circulations, of which this newspaper is a member, is a cooperative, nonprofit association of 3,575 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing: A definition for paid circulation; rules and standards for auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

I AM A USED CAR

Kingston, New York

Mr. Motorist
Any Street
City and County

Dear Sir:

I am a used car. I was born just about 3 years ago and most docs say I have about 8 more years to go—that is, if I take care of myself. And so far, that's what I've been doing. You see, I've gone only 25,000 miles —and the doc who delivered me said I was good for well over 200,000 miles. And I've kept out of trouble. Oh, there've been a few minor things, like someone scraped my fenders once and my brakes got worn down some so that I had to get new shoes — but nothing serious, or that won't happen to any other fellow just like me. You know I feel just wonderful—in the pink—and I look pretty good, too, if I do say so myself — Yes, I'm a Used Car, and I want a new home. A real bargain for some guy because another fellow paid most of the freight.

Won't you please come down and look me over?

Very Hopefully Yours,
MR. 1950 DODGE

P.S.—I've got ten to twenty brothers and cousins here at your friendly Dodge Dealer's and, can you beat this—every one of them thinks he's better than me! Here are the names of just a few of them. 1950 Mercury . . . 1951 Plymouth . . . 1950 Chevrolet . . . 1953 Dodge . . . 1952 Dodge.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Accept Errors As Part of Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Nobody plays errorless bridge. You must expect to make an occasional error of your own, although it is to be hoped that you will make very few, and you must expect your opponents to stumble now and then also. When they do, be ready to take advantage of their lapses.

In today's hand, for example, West opened the king of hearts, and declarer made the sad mistake of winning immediately with dummy's ace. If you'd have made the same mistake, don't tell anybody. We'll see later on what is wrong with that play.

After making his mistake, South led a diamond to the ace and returned a heart towards the dummy. West naturally hopped up with the queen of hearts and returned. . . .

Well, what would you return if you were West, to take full advantage of declarer's mistake?

When Clagett Bowie, the well-known expert of Towson, Md., had the West cards he saw that South was trying to get back to dummy in order to cash the top diamonds. There was only one way to keep South out of the dummy. Bowie returned the king of spades!

This sacrificed a trump trick, to be sure, but the sacrifice paid off. South could win six trump tricks and his three side aces, but these came to a total of only nine tricks. The defenders scored 10 points, thanks to Bowie's fine defensive play.

Now let's go back to South's play. As you see, good defense beats him if he wins the first trick in dummy with the ace of hearts. No defense can touch him if he refuses the first trick. And this is, of course, the very best reason for refusing it.

If the defenders continue with another heart, South wins in dummy, gets to his hand with the ace of diamonds, and ruffs a heart in dummy. He is now in position to cash two high diamonds in order to discard his last heart and a club. He must lose a trump trick, but he makes the rest, scoring game, rubber, and an overtrick.

If the defenders lead anything but a heart at the second trick, the ace of hearts remains in the dummy as an entry to the diamonds. For example, suppose West shifts to a club, which happens to be his best defense. South wins with the ace, clears the ace of diamonds out of the way, leads a heart to the ace, and cashes two high diamonds to discard a club and a heart. Now he cannot lose his contract, and if he makes the right decision he can make an overtrick.

BABSON on BUSINESS

New Boston, N. H., Oct. 7—Everyone should employ a lawyer and make a will at once, and re-read it once each year. Over 70 per cent of those who die each day leave no will. Inquiry shows, however, that a large percentage of these careless people have some property. When they die without a will, this property usually goes to someone whom they don't want to get it.

Making a will is especially important if your name is Smith, Brown, Jones, or some equally popular name. (If you have any doubt as to the number of people having your name, just refer to any large city telephone directory.) If you happen to own a house when you die, your family may get hundreds of letters claiming relationship.

PROBABLY THE PROBATE Court will throw out most of these claims as fraudulent; but some may be left whom your family must "buy off" before a clear title can be given to the real estate or the stock or bond which you own. I am much troubled by the fact that the number of stockholders and government bondholders are increasing so much faster than the wills are being written.

Each year about $500,000,000 are paid by insurance companies for the 40,000 people killed in automobile accidents. Most of those killed leave no wills, yet they get "awards" of from $10,000 to $20,000 or more.

WHAT PERSONS would you like to have receive your part of this $500,000,000 in case you should be killed? It depends upon the laws of your state; but the chances are it may go to "relatives" whom you never saw. Hence, before you take another auto ride, you should make a will stating to whom you want this award to go in case you do get killed. I forecast the time may come when states will not be allowed to issue auto registrations to those 21 and over unless the applicant swears he has made a will.

EVERY UP-TO-DATE corporation and employer carries liability insurance to protect workers and customers. You do not need to be in an automobile to get accidentally killed. I see by the newspapers that about 90 New England people were killed by hurricanes this past month; none of these people had any warning. Many more are burned to death each week somewhere.

Perhaps you are included in some Group Life Insurance Plan. These plans pay, regardless of how you die. You do not have to be killed in an automobile or any other kind of accident in order to get such an insurance award. You may die from pneumonia, polio, heart attack, or some other trouble which comes on suddenly.

FOR SOME FOOLISH reason, most people do not like to visit a doctor, dentist, or lawyer, unless in pain or some other trouble. This is all wrong. These men will treat you fairly. And this surely applies also to lawyers whom your bank recommends.

Every reader of my column has a savings deposit with some bank. These banks want to help you in many ways, without charge. If you have not made a WILL, go to your bank tomorrow and ask your banker to recommend some lawyer who can make a WILL for you at a fair price. You may know some lawyer yourself; but you should be sure he knows how to make legal WILLS which "hold water" and cannot be broken.

IF YOU ARE not ready to do this immediately, I have arranged with the Non-Profit Educational Information Center here at New Boston, N. H., (not "Old Boston" which may be bombed!") to send you, for Two Dollars, a blank form for a Temporary Will and other information. This blank form you can fill out in a few minutes and have witnessed by three neighbors at no expense.

Later you can take this to your lawyer for a re-write when you think of some addition you may wish to make. But don't wait to take some step at once. Next week may be too late. At least, send for a temporary WILL now; it will serve you until you do go to your lawyer.

Before you decide to throw something away, it will pay you to consider selling it with an economical want ad in the Freeman.

As Pegler Sees It

from the definite loss of France to the Communists in the last few months.

There are many foundations and no authority claims to know how much money they have or what they do with it except to the extent that they are willing to say to serve their own interests. However, it is not excessize to say that there never was such a great mass of money immune to all regulation and inquiry in the history of the country.

Most of the activity of this wealth is political, though disguised as "social" and "educational." And the constant purpose is dilution of the sovereign character of the United States.

Time was when the average American family could not scrape together $100 even by borrowing. That was the day of the nickel loaf and the nickel quart of milk. But the time came way back in Roosevelt's day when a charge of $100 for a $4 blue-plate dinner to raise money for political activities became routine. This is a form of blackmail or shakedown, but our morals have become caloused so we never question the purposes for which the boodle is spent.

Rejuvenating Stair Carpet

Stair carpets that are worn almost through with age can be rejuvenated by moving the carpet up or down just enough to put the riser carpeting on the tread, the worn areas on the risers.

On the front page of Wednesday's Freeman, Mr. Shultis gave his long range forecast for the winter. With all respect to Mr. Shultis, I think he is out of line this time. We are going to have the toughest winter and more snow than we have had since 1947, or I will even dare say since 1933. The woods are full of acorns for the first time in the last 21 years and the squirrels are taking advantage of that and storing them, which means they know more about the weather than Mr. Shultis. I would advise you to do as the squirrels do, to store a lot of LES POMMIERS ONION SOUP on your shelves. It is the best onion soup on the market in flavor and also the richest soup, because it is made from rich, juicy beef broth, with beef extract added, and onions from sun-kissed California. LES POMMIERS BRAND ONION SOUP is positively non-fattening, but very nourishing—a complete meal by itself and a money saver for you. It is soup you will never regret that you bought and never forget that you ate. You will find LES POMMIERS BRAND ONION SOUP in the better stores in Kingston. If your grocer doesn't have it, ask him to get it for you at LES POMMIERS CANNERY, Lake Katrine, Telephone Kingston 7585.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Accept Errors As Part of Game

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Nobody plays errorless bridge. You must expect to make an occasional error of your own, although it is to be hoped that you will make very few, and you must expect your opponents to stumble now and then also. When they do, be ready to take advantage of their lapses.

In today's hand, for example, West opened the king of hearts, and declarer made the sad mistake of winning immediately with dummy's ace. If you'd have made the same mistake, don't tell anybody. We'll see later on what is wrong with that play.

After making his mistake, South led a diamond to the ace and returned a heart towards the dummy. West naturally hopped up with the queen of hearts and returned. . . .

Well, what would you return if you were West, to take full advantage of declarer's mistake?

When Clagett Bowie, the well-known expert of Towson, Md., had the West cards he saw that South was trying to get back to dummy in order to cash the top diamonds. There was only one way to keep South out of the dummy. Bowie returned the king of spades!

This sacrificed a trump trick, to be sure, but the sacrifice paid off. South could win six trump tricks and his three side aces, but these came to a total of only nine tricks. The defenders scored 10 points, thanks to Bowie's fine defensive play.

Now let's go back to South's play. As you see, good defense beats him if he wins the first trick in dummy with the ace of hearts. No defense can touch him if he refuses the first trick. And this is, of course, the very best reason for refusing it.

If the defenders continue with another heart, South wins in dummy, gets to his hand with the ace of diamonds, and ruffs a heart in dummy. He is now in position to cash two high diamonds in order to discard his last heart and a club. He must lose a trump trick, but he makes the rest, scoring game, rubber, and an overtrick.

If the defenders lead anything but a heart at the second trick, the ace of hearts remains in the dummy as an entry to the diamonds. For example, suppose West shifts to a club, which happens to be his best defense. South wins with the ace, clears the ace of diamonds out of the way, leads a heart to the ace, and cashes two high diamonds to discard a club and a heart. Now he cannot lose his contract, and if he makes the right decision he can make an overtrick.

ALONG BROADWAY, there is a grapevine that generally gets the word on new shows beforehand. The word will go out that a coming show is a "stiff" or a "turkey"—in other words, a flop—or that it's a "sure thing" or a "sleeper." These unofficial critiques are usually deadly accurate.

But the grapevine flopped on "The Boy Friend." This was rumored to be a double-breasted turkey. It turned out to be a smash hit, with unanimous raves from New York's legitimate critics. "The Boy Friend," an English import, is a great spoof of the flapper-era musical comedies. Highlights are the deliciously corny lyrics—sample: "Up in the attic, we'll be ecstatic"—and a four-girl chorus that poses, giggles, speaks in unison and generally brings down the house.

The audience applauded for fully 10 minutes after the curtain came down, and Broadway had its first big hit of the season.

But the boy is very smart. And he catches on quickly. Now, after much experience, he knows enough that whenever he hears the words "screen test," he turns down the lights. Other night our hero was in a serious business discussion with some male business associates. Came the words "screen test" and down went all the lights.

Carolyn Leigh, who wrote "Young at Heart," went to California and was there as Frank Sinatra was making a new movie under that title. She had an invitation to visit the studio, and decided to call up first.

"My name is Carolyn Leigh," she told the man who answered the phone, "and I wrote a song called 'Young At Heart'."

"Sorry, lady," said the man, "but somebody already wrote a song by that name and it's doing real good."

Kingston High School Prisma Society Will Begin Annual Magazine Campaign

Members of Prisma Society of Kingston High School will hold their annual magazine drive in Kingston and vicinity beginning Monday, Oct. 18 through Monday, Nov. 1. This campaign is conducted by the girl's group under the direction of Mrs. Marion Murray, now serving her third year as faculty advisor.

The drive to obtain new subscriptions and renew old ones, will benefit the scholarship fund of the service club. In June, a total of $1300 in scholarships was awarded to members of the graduating class.

RECIPIENTS OF THE scholarships and the amounts were: Miss Claudia Bouchard, $300; Miss Barbara Chmura, $300; Miss Carolyn Meeker, $300; Miss Evelyn Rohrman, $300; and Miss Naomi Lurie, $100.

In addition, the society also sponsors and exchange student from abroad for a year at KHS, and sends two juniors from this high school to Europe during the summer through the American Field Service. The society believes that international understanding is best done through young people, in promoting this exchange service.

THE TWO GIRLS who have just returned from a Prisma-sponsored summer abroad are Miss Sande Galate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Galate of 16 Hewitt Place, who spent two months in Germany, and Miss Nancy Ellsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth of Port Ewen, who visited in Holland for two months.

Studying this year at KHS through the AFS and Prisma program is Miss Kari Storhaug of Norway. She is a guest of Miss Carol Rylance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rylance of 44 West Chestnut street.

Since the amount of scholarships to be given deserving girls in any field of advanced education they choose, as well as the continuation of the worthwhile exchange program of students, depends on their success in the drive, the girls are making definite preparations for the campaign.

Under the supervision of William Amann, Curtis representative, and Mrs. Murray, girls will be working in home room teams with captains at the head of each.

"THE PRISMA GIRLS will be stopping at homes throughout the city beginning Monday, Oct. 18," said Mrs. Murray, "to sell the magazines in the 1954 campaign. I hope people will welcome them and buy magazines from them to help the scholarship and service work of the organization."

The girls will receive prizes from participating merchants in the city for the highest total sales in the drive. Competition between classes will be noted by means of a large thermometer in the front corridor, recording each day's total sales.

Prisma Society, which was organized in 1916 as a literary club, is now a service society with over 500 members, from all four years of high school. The only membership requirement is the sale of three magazine subscriptions, which many girls will be fulfilling through the present 10-day magazine drive.

New Paltz Senior Scout Will Attend Regional Conference to Be in Buffalo

For the first time, Ulster County Girl Scout Council, Inc., will send a Senior Girl Scout to the three-day regional conference at Hotel Statler, Buffalo, October 26 through 29. The Senior Scout delegate is Miss Carolyn Stark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Stark of New Paltz.

The council delegates will be Mrs. Donovan Buehring, president, and Mrs. Kenneth Martin. Their emphasis at the conference, to be attended by delegates from New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico, Canal Zone and Virgin Islands, will be on discussion of breaking down the community into neighborhoods, and of program trends for Senior Scouts.

"I certainly hope that they send delegates from the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands," Carolyn said when interviewed at George Washington School this week. The petite, 14-year-old New Paltz High School freshman, will attend all sessions in Buffalo, but will have no voting right.

CHOSEN BY THE COUNCIL on the basis of her record, Carolyn explained that she now has 17 proficiency badges, sewn on a green ribbon, along with a medal, the National Garden Institute Award.

Carolyn received this medal as a result of her work with Mrs. Barton of Port Washington, L. I., four years ago, in flower and vegetable gardening. A prominent expert on gardens, Mrs. Barton held classes each Saturday during the winter to help the girls work on their nature badges, and classes in her gardens during the summer months.

A RESIDENT of New Paltz for just one year, Carolyn said that she joined the Brownies in Needham, Mass., in 1947 and has been working on scouting projects ever since. In Port Washington, she was a member of the Junior Planning Board, which met monthly. The board, aided by the executive director's guidance, gave approval to the three-year Brownie program; planned a community rally for Juliette Low's birthday celebration; arranged a parade for Memorial Day; and instituted a Good Grooming Course given by Helena Rubenstein.

Carolyn was "the first one out on the stage," in the fashion show which climaxed the grooming course, although she "didn't like what they squirted on my hair."

The pretty, bright-eyed Senior Scout enjoys her camping experience with the Girl Scouts, where she learned "all about swimming," and has completed Red Cross requirements.

SHE SPENT TWO SUMMERS at Blue Bay camp, East Hampton, L. I., and one at Camp Wendy. "It's fun to learn how to camp and how to cook out of doors," she says. Her mother, the leader of Troop 37 in New Paltz, is planning a camping party in Kerhonkson this weekend for the entire troop, in the Girl Scout House there on the Samsonville road. Fathers of the Kerhonkson troop helped build the camp with donated materials.

"Giving service is an important part of Girl Scouting," Carolyn added. The girls plan to help the League of Women Voters in New Paltz by handing out buttons, urging people to vote in the coming elections, as one of their community projects.

One of the main service projects of the troop in which Carolyn has taken an active part each week during the summer, is library aid work at the New Paltz Library. The girls plan to give 30 hours each to earn credit through their assistance at preparing books for the library shelves.

"GIRL SCOUTING is fun, because you learn how to work together with others," Carolyn said. "And you meet more people, too, as I did at the conference in Wappingers Falls, where there were many scout troops."

"And I know that wherever I go," said the well-traveled Senior Scout, "I'll always find Girl Scout troops."

Home Bureau

Stone Ridge Home Bureau has scheduled its second lesson on sewing screens for Oct. 13 at 7:30 p. m. at the Stone Ridge firehouse. Mrs. Mary Hansen will teach the class. The unit held its monthly business meeting Oct. 6 at the firehouse. Mrs. Adelaide Graham, new leader, took charge and projects for the year were discussed. WHEN LARGE FAMILIES POOL TOGETHER

A daughter writes: "I come from a large family and all of us are married and living in our own homes except one sister, who lives with mother and father. There are occasions when all of use contribute to a sum to be spent in buying a wedding present, or flowers for a funeral, and acccordingly we would like to make it clear they are from all of us. Mother has been writing Mr. and Mrs. . . . and family, and judging by some of the thank-you notes in return I am quite sure the present is assumed to be from mother and father and my unmarried sister living with them. Will you suggest wording to make the situation clear?

Families often club together since in this way they can send far more lovely presents and flowers, but the names should all be listed instead of simply putting "and family" which is too indefinite.

Clothes for Bride's Father

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married at a morning wedding and the men in the wedding party will wear the conventional striped trousers and cutaway coats. However, my father refuses to wear any such clothes. I would like to know if it would be proper for him to wear a plain dark business suit.

Answer: Yes, that is if he doesn't mind looking a little bit like a poor relation.

"Coming Out"

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me exactly what the term "coming out" means?

Answer: The coming out of a debutante means coming out into the social world from that of the school room. In other words, one who has finished her education is supposed to be eligible for invitations to whatever adult parties are being given in the community.

Some readers write that they find the introducing of family and friends confusing. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," will be helpful. At the same meeting, the following girls will receive their Tenderfoot pins: Jane Kelly, Gail Zaccheo, Patricia Joy, Virginia Joy, Virginia McCord, Kathleen O'Brien, Rosalie Saccoman, Jean Fox, Kathryn Scully, Lynda McFadden, Jeanne Ennis, Judy White, Donna Riehl, and Anne Butler.

In addition, the society also sponsors and exchange student from abroad for a year at KHS, and sends two juniors from this high school to Europe during the summer through the American Field Service. The society believes that international understanding is best done through young people, in promoting this exchange service.

THE TWO GIRLS who have just returned from a Prisma-sponsored summer abroad are Miss Sande Galate, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Galate of 16 Hewitt Place, who spent two months in Germany, and Miss Nancy Ellsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth of Port Ewen, who visited in Holland for two months.

Studying this year at KHS through the AFS and Prisma program is Miss Kari Storhaug of Norway. She is a guest of Miss Carol Rylance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rylance of 44 West Chestnut street.

Since the amount of scholarships to be given deserving girls in any field of advanced education they choose, as well as the continuation of the worthwhile exchange program of students, depends on their success in the drive, the girls are making definite preparations for the campaign.

Under the supervision of William Amann, Curtis representative, and Mrs. Murray, girls will be working in home room teams with captains at the head of each.

"THE PRISMA GIRLS will be stopping at homes throughout the city beginning Monday, Oct. 18," said Mrs. Murray, "to sell the magazines in the 1954 campaign. I hope people will welcome them and buy magazines from them to help the scholarship and service work of the organization."

The girls will receive prizes from participating merchants in the city for the highest total sales in the drive. Competition between classes will be noted by means of a large thermometer in the front corridor, recording each day's total sales.

Prisma Society, which was organized in 1916 as a literary club, is now a service society with over 500 members, from all four years of high school. The only membership requirement is the sale of three magazine subscriptions, which many girls will be fulfilling through the present 10-day magazine drive.

New Paltz Senior Scout Will Attend Regional Conference to Be in Buffalo

For the first time, Ulster County Girl Scout Council, Inc., will send a Senior Girl Scout to the three-day regional conference at Hotel Statler, Buffalo, October 26 through 29. The Senior Scout delegate is Miss Carolyn Stark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen W. Stark of New Paltz.

The council delegates will be Mrs. Donovan Buehring, president, and Mrs. Kenneth Martin. Their emphasis at the conference, to be attended by delegates from New York, New Jersey, Puerto Rico, Canal Zone and Virgin Islands, will be on discussion of breaking down the community into neighborhoods, and of program trends for Senior Scouts.

"I certainly hope that they send delegates from the Canal Zone, Puerto Rico and Virgin Islands," Carolyn said when interviewed at George Washington School this week. The petite, 14-year-old New Paltz High School freshman, will attend all sessions in Buffalo, but will have no voting right.

CHOSEN BY THE COUNCIL on the basis of her record, Carolyn explained that she now has 17 proficiency badges, sewn on a green ribbon, along with a medal, the National Garden Institute Award.

Carolyn received this medal as a result of her work with Mrs. Barton of Port Washington, L. I., four years ago, in flower and vegetable gardening. A prominent expert on gardens, Mrs. Barton held classes each Saturday during the winter to help the girls work on their nature badges, and classes in her gardens during the summer months.

A RESIDENT of New Paltz for just one year, Carolyn said that she joined the Brownies in Needham, Mass., in 1947 and has been working on scouting projects ever since. In Port Washington, she was a member of the Junior Planning Board, which met monthly. The board, aided by the executive director's guidance, gave approval to the three-year Brownie program; planned a community rally for Juliette Low's birthday celebration; arranged a parade for Memorial Day; and instituted a Good Grooming Course given by Helena Rubenstein.

Carolyn was "the first one out on the stage," in the fashion show which climaxed the grooming course, although she "didn't like what they squirted on my hair."

The pretty, bright-eyed Senior Scout enjoys her camping experience with the Girl Scouts, where she learned "all about swimming," and has completed Red Cross requirements.

SHE SPENT TWO SUMMERS at Blue Bay camp, East Hampton, L. I., and one at Camp Wendy. "It's fun to learn how to camp and how to cook out of doors," she says. Her mother, the leader of Troop 37 in New Paltz, is planning a camping party in Kerhonkson this weekend for the entire troop, in the Girl Scout House there on the Samsonville road. Fathers of the Kerhonkson troop helped build the camp with donated materials.

"Giving service is an important part of Girl Scouting," Carolyn added. The girls plan to help the League of Women Voters in New Paltz by handing out buttons, urging people to vote in the coming elections, as one of their community projects.

One of the main service projects of the troop in which Carolyn has taken an active part each week during the summer, is library aid work at the New Paltz Library. The girls plan to give 30 hours each to earn credit through their assistance at preparing books for the library shelves.

"GIRL SCOUTING is fun, because you learn how to work together with others," Carolyn said. "And you meet more people, too, as I did at the conference in Wappingers Falls, where there were many scout troops."

"And I know that wherever I go," said the well-traveled Senior Scout, "I'll always find Girl Scout troops."

WHEN LARGE FAMILIES POOL TOGETHER

A daughter writes: "I come from a large family and all of us are married and living in our own homes except one sister, who lives with mother and father. There are occasions when all of use contribute to a sum to be spent in buying a wedding present, or flowers for a funeral, and acccordingly we would like to make it clear they are from all of us. Mother has been writing Mr. and Mrs. . . . and family, and judging by some of the thank-you notes in return I am quite sure the present is assumed to be from mother and father and my unmarried sister living with them. Will you suggest wording to make the situation clear?

Families often club together since in this way they can send far more lovely presents and flowers, but the names should all be listed instead of simply putting "and family" which is too indefinite.

Clothes for Bride's Father

Dear Mrs. Post: I am going to be married at a morning wedding and the men in the wedding party will wear the conventional striped trousers and cutaway coats. However, my father refuses to wear any such clothes. I would like to know if it would be proper for him to wear a plain dark business suit.

Answer: Yes, that is if he doesn't mind looking a little bit like a poor relation.

"Coming Out"

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me exactly what the term "coming out" means?

Answer: The coming out of a debutante means coming out into the social world from that of the school room. In other words, one who has finished her education is supposed to be eligible for invitations to whatever adult parties are being given in the community.

Some readers write that they find the introducing of family and friends confusing. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail, but her leaflet E-17, "Introductions," will be helpful. clerical work involved in figuring payrolls twice as often, the volume of work would not double.

OTHER MEMBERS of the Board, during the discussion, indicated a willingness to abide by the wishes of the teachers. Mrs. John D. Schoonmaker pointed out that most other salaried persons are paid more often than monthly, and twice-monthly pay checks "would make it easier for them."

Mrs. Vincent Connelly said that, when she taught for another school system, she was paid twice a month, and Richard M. Kalish commented, "They deserve it."

The Kingston Teachers Federation, in a letter signed by its president, Michael Aronica listed among the advantages of the 20-pay sistem the fact that the first pay check will come sooner for teachers after three summer months without pay and that during holiday periods the present pay system sometimes involves a period of up to six weeks between checks.

THE BOARD on Thursday night accepted the resignations of Joan D. Bossi, a teacher of physical education in the elementary schools, and Herman F. Boyle, janitor in the vocational building.

President Herzog and Superintendent Laidlaw were authorized to issue warrants in payment of payrolls and vouchers for the month of September in the amount of $174,668.79; warrants in payment of the FDA school lunch program payroll and vouchers for $12,267.46, and warrants in payment of the Veterans Institutional on the Farm Training Program for $191.60.

Probationary appointments as maintainer were given to Francis J. O'Donnell of 56 Van Buren street; Alan M. Styles, 127 West O'Reilly street, and Arthur F. Dehn, 11 Broadway. They placed from second to fourth, respectively in the Civil Service examination held on July 10. Edward F. Rhymer of Richmond Park, who placed first, had declined appointment and notified the Board in writing to that effect.

Use of school facilities was granted to the following organizations:

RIP VAN WINKLE Council, Boy Scouts of America, will use the George Washington School auditorium for a Kingston District Court of Honor on November 23 from 7:30 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

Ulster County Girl Scouts will have a "Scouts Own" birthday party at the high school auditorium on Sunday, Oct. 31, beginning at 3 p. m. About 700 girls and adults are expected to attend.

The Girl Scouts were also granted use of the audio-visual room in the George Washington School on Monday afternoons, 4 to 4:30 p. m. for rehearsals of a city-wide choral group under the direction of Mrs. William R. Rylance.

Coach House Players will use the George Washington School auditorium on November 10 and 11 for performances of a play and on other evenings for rehearsal.

YWCA Y-Teen groups were granted use of half the Kate Walton Field House on Saturday night, Oct. 23, for the annual Harvest Moon Dance.

KINGSTON DEPARTMENT of Recreation will use the George Washington School and Myron J. Michael School gymnasiums for the department's regular basketball league contests, under competent supervision, on Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

The Recreation Department was also granted use of the Field House on Saturday, Dec. 18, for a regularly scheduled college basketball game between Manhattan and Hartwick colleges, proceeds to go to junior basketball leagues in the city.

Recommendations of Leonard Stine, director of music, relative to handling the new Steinway piano on the high school stage were adopted. Under the new regulations, the piano will not be moved from the stage unless necessary, and then only by a professional piano moving firm. Cost of the moving, estimated by one local moving firm at $20 per move, will be born by the organization using the auditorium.

RADIO RIGHTS at high school football and basketball games were granted to WKNY. A request from the same source for television picture rights was referred to the athletic committee with power to act.

The Board approved the action of its building committee in awarding the contract for furnishing and installing a boiler in School No. 2 to John Matthews on a low bid of $5,070 plus $225 for rock removal.

Trustee Kalish reported on the summer repairs made to school properties and complimented the maintenance department under Richard McLean, which, he said, "is doing an outstanding job, as usual."

Superintendent Laidlaw reported the school enrollment in the city's public schools as of Sept. 20 was 5,548, of which 1,801 were in the high school, 842 in the MJM, and the remainder in elementary schools. The total is an increase of 172 over a year ago, he said.

Total school enrollment in the city, public, parochial and private schools, is 7,009.

Laidlaw requested the corridors in the high school be given acoustical treatment. The matter was referred to the board's building committee to obtain an estimate of costs. The committee was given power to act, if necessary.

A REPRESENTATIVE of Lumberman's Mutual Insurance Company was present to outline to the board a proposal to solicit in the schools for insurance policies to cover children at school, while traveling to and from school, on supervised field trips, and under a number of other circumstances. The insurance, to be paid by the parents on a voluntary basis, would cost under one plan $1 per child per year and would offer up to $1,500 in medical payments on a $10 deductible basis. This was referred to the board's insurance committee for study in consultation with the insurance agents' committee.

Board members reported receiving many favorable comments on the recent talks in school assemblies by the Quaker Man, brought here by the Kingston Lions Club. The Board directed Superintendent Laidlaw to write a letter of appreciation to the Lions Club.

Summaries of costs of the various projects were received by the Board,, showing that the total cost of the George Washington School, including land, was $1,474,550.72; total cost of the Kate Walton Field House was $555,654.97, and total cost of the high school reconstruction (replacing the old basement gym with a cafeteria) was $217,242.12.

Laidlaw called attention to the adult education program, registration for which was held Wednesday night. Enrollment, he said, already equalled that of last year, and additional enrollments are expected as Wednesday evening was a religous holiday.

Board Delays

nine-member elected board. Separate elementary schools would be maintained throughout the district, and in the higher grades pupils would be transported to Kingston High School and the MJM School. Under the present plan, the individual districts retain control of their own elementary schools and send pupils to Kingston High School and the MJM School on a tuition basis.

Why We Say--

When we use this expression today, we are speaking of deceitful action by someone. The expression started with pirates who would sail under the flag (or colors) of a friendly nation. But when they approached a cargo ship they would raise the pirate flag and "show their true colors."

The only beast in some men is a mouse.

Stevenson Raps Administration

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 8 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson labeled the Republican campaign a 1952 model last night and charged the Eisenhower administration with "foolish boasts and broken promises."

"Vice President Nixon, the Republican chief of staff, has pitched the Republican campaign on the high level of communism, corruption, controls and Korea," he said, adding, "but that's a 1952 model."

Stevenson told a Kansas Democratic rally there is a revolt against "the family quarrels and hopeless divisions of the Republicans, and against policies which consistently favor the few at the expense of many."

"A reborn progressive Democratic party is firmly established in rock-riddle Republican Maine," the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee declared.

He said he found in Kansas "as in Maine * * * ground swell of dismay and revolt against the foolish boasts and broken promises" of the Eisenhower administration.

"Even the normally huge Republican majorities in the congressional races have been whittled down to a size which should be quite manageable by us Democrats—come 1956," he remarked.

Stevenson charged that there is a "paralysis of American influence in foreign affairs, due to the contradictions and divisions within the Republican party."

Describing the McCarthy hearings as "that sordid exhibition," he said the Republicans have displayed efforts "to appease Sen. McCarthy—to have it both ways—to use and to abuse McCarthy at the same time."

An estimated 4,500 persons crowded into a huge ballroom to hear Stevenson in this predominantly Republican state. He was accompanied by his 22-year-old son, Borden.

Rt. 28 Overpass

would not mean, however, that the expressway could not be opened to traffic southward from the city late in the month. It is possible to use the present traffic light to control traffic until the overpass is finished.

A section near the Rondout creek bridge in the Rosendale area has been behind schedule because of early delays in the bridge work, but state officials have reported progress generally satisfactory on all other sections between Kingston and Newburgh.

A reliable state source, earlier this week, said the thruway authority was aiming at Oct. 26 for the opening of the highway between Albany and Harriman.

Land Is Purchased

A contract has been signed for the purchase by R. E. Craft and associates of a parcel of land on Albany avenue extension adjoining the Packard sales rooms. The property, on which there is a residence, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Chase. The property has a frontage of 140 feet on Albany avenue and extends back to the West Shore Railroad. Craft did not divulge the use to which the premises may be put but stated that he was exceptionally optimistic over the future development of the Albany avenue section in the vicinity of the new IBM plant which is now under construction just north of the city.

Cost of the moving, estimated by one local moving firm at $20 per move, will be born by the organization using the auditorium.

RADIO RIGHTS at high school football and basketball games were granted to WKNY. A request from the same source for television picture rights was referred to the athletic committee with power to act.

The Board approved the action of its building committee in awarding the contract for furnishing and installing a boiler in School No. 2 to John Matthews on a low bid of $5,070 plus $225 for rock removal.

Trustee Kalish reported on the summer repairs made to school properties and complimented the maintenance department under Richard McLean, which, he said, "is doing an outstanding job, as usual."

Superintendent Laidlaw reported the school enrollment in the city's public schools as of Sept. 20 was 5,548, of which 1,801 were in the high school, 842 in the MJM, and the remainder in elementary schools. The total is an increase of 172 over a year ago, he said.

Total school enrollment in the city, public, parochial and private schools, is 7,009.

Laidlaw requested the corridors in the high school be given acoustical treatment. The matter was referred to the board's building committee to obtain an estimate of costs. The committee was given power to act, if necessary.

A REPRESENTATIVE of Lumberman's Mutual Insurance Company was present to outline to the board a proposal to solicit in the schools for insurance policies to cover children at school, while traveling to and from school, on supervised field trips, and under a number of other circumstances. The insurance, to be paid by the parents on a voluntary basis, would cost under one plan $1 per child per year and would offer up to $1,500 in medical payments on a $10 deductible basis. This was referred to the board's insurance committee for study in consultation with the insurance agents' committee.

Board members reported receiving many favorable comments on the recent talks in school assemblies by the Quaker Man, brought here by the Kingston Lions Club. The Board directed Superintendent Laidlaw to write a letter of appreciation to the Lions Club.

Summaries of costs of the various projects were received by the Board,, showing that the total cost of the George Washington School, including land, was $1,474,550.72; total cost of the Kate Walton Field House was $555,654.97, and total cost of the high school reconstruction (replacing the old basement gym with a cafeteria) was $217,242.12.

Laidlaw called attention to the adult education program, registration for which was held Wednesday night. Enrollment, he said, already equalled that of last year, and additional enrollments are expected as Wednesday evening was a religous holiday.

nine-member elected board. Separate elementary schools would be maintained throughout the district, and in the higher grades pupils would be transported to Kingston High School and the MJM School. Under the present plan, the individual districts retain control of their own elementary schools and send pupils to Kingston High School and the MJM School on a tuition basis.

Stevenson Raps Administration

Wichita, Kan., Oct. 8 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson labeled the Republican campaign a 1952 model last night and charged the Eisenhower administration with "foolish boasts and broken promises."

"Vice President Nixon, the Republican chief of staff, has pitched the Republican campaign on the high level of communism, corruption, controls and Korea," he said, adding, "but that's a 1952 model."

Stevenson told a Kansas Democratic rally there is a revolt against "the family quarrels and hopeless divisions of the Republicans, and against policies which consistently favor the few at the expense of many."

"A reborn progressive Democratic party is firmly established in rock-riddle Republican Maine," the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee declared.

He said he found in Kansas "as in Maine * * * ground swell of dismay and revolt against the foolish boasts and broken promises" of the Eisenhower administration.

"Even the normally huge Republican majorities in the congressional races have been whittled down to a size which should be quite manageable by us Democrats—come 1956," he remarked.

Stevenson charged that there is a "paralysis of American influence in foreign affairs, due to the contradictions and divisions within the Republican party."

Describing the McCarthy hearings as "that sordid exhibition," he said the Republicans have displayed efforts "to appease Sen. McCarthy—to have it both ways—to use and to abuse McCarthy at the same time."

An estimated 4,500 persons crowded into a huge ballroom to hear Stevenson in this predominantly Republican state. He was accompanied by his 22-year-old son, Borden.

Rt. 28 Overpass

would not mean, however, that the expressway could not be opened to traffic southward from the city late in the month. It is possible to use the present traffic light to control traffic until the overpass is finished.

A section near the Rondout creek bridge in the Rosendale area has been behind schedule because of early delays in the bridge work, but state officials have reported progress generally satisfactory on all other sections between Kingston and Newburgh.

A reliable state source, earlier this week, said the thruway authority was aiming at Oct. 26 for the opening of the highway between Albany and Harriman.

Land Is Purchased

A contract has been signed for the purchase by R. E. Craft and associates of a parcel of land on Albany avenue extension adjoining the Packard sales rooms. The property, on which there is a residence, is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley E. Chase. The property has a frontage of 140 feet on Albany avenue and extends back to the West Shore Railroad. Craft did not divulge the use to which the premises may be put but stated that he was exceptionally optimistic over the future development of the Albany avenue section in the vicinity of the new IBM plant which is now under construction just north of the city.

Why We Say--

When we use this expression today, we are speaking of deceitful action by someone. The expression started with pirates who would sail under the flag (or colors) of a friendly nation. But when they approached a cargo ship they would raise the pirate flag and "show their true colors."

Robinson Hints Ring Comeback

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—Dancing man Ray Robinson, pressed for money to finance a big show, may return to the ring from which he retired in 1952.

Sugar Ray, who once held the world welterweight and middleweight championship, has started workouts and plans to go into serious training at Greenwood Lake, N. J., starting Monday.

Nothing is definite, his manager, George Gainford, said today.

"Only a lot of work in the camp will show if Sugar has it," he said. "If he doesn't, the whole idea is off. If we are convinced he can still fight, he will return to the ring."

Robinson has been in show business since he retired and Gainford said the pair want to make a tour of the world with their own show.

"But," he said, "we figure it will cost a quarter of a million dollars to arrange that—hiring singers, dancers and an orchestra. We don't have that kind of money and we don't want to go into debt for it.

"There is only one way to get the cash and that is for Sugar to fight again. The same guys he licked when he was active in the ring are still fighting. He can whip them again.

Trojans Risk Perfect Record Against Frogs

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

Southern California, which may be one of the nation's best college football teams, risks its unbeaten record against youthful and unpredictable Texas Christian team tonight (Friday), but whatever the talented Trojans do is likely to be forgotten once the rush of Saturday's big games gets underway.

So far this season, Southern California has crushed Washington State and Pitt and barely squeaked past Northwestern—a three-game record that hasn't impressed the experts enough to earn the Trojans a top rating. The TCU youngsters were fast and fiery enough to throw a scare into Oklahoma, now the No. 1 team in the weekly Associated Press ranking poll, but they followed that by dropping a close decision to Arkansas.

This game tops a slender Friday night card that includes Miami (Fla.) vs. Holy Cross, Denver vs. Montana and Davidson vs. Presbyterian.

THEN ON Saturday comes such games as Oklahoma vs. Texas at Dallas, Wisconsin vs. Rice (the televised "game of the week"), Purdue vs. Duke and Stanford vs. Navy. And, as usual on an October Saturday, there'll be a lot of other games sufficiently important of entertaining to bring out the cash cuctomers in large numbers.

Oklahoma moved to the front in the national ratings last week while refraining from competition in anticipation of the Texas game while other leaders were being engulfed in a wave of upsets. With Gene Calame, their star quarterback, still out of action and sophomore Jim Harris taking his place, the Sooners may be in for a bad time this week.

The Rice-Wisconsin meeting brings together two of the season's more talented and colorful backs on any major teams. It's Rice's Dicky Moegle, a speedy, elusive runner against Wisconsin's Alan (The Horse) Ameche, a mobile mountain who crushes opposing tacklers. Wisconsin is the No. 3 team in this week's AP poll behind Oklahoma and UCLA.

PURDUE, which had its day of glory in beating Notre Dame, runs into a well-balanced, experienced Duke team that has a wealth of good backs. They're fifth and sixth, respectively, in the weekly ratings.

Stanford, a lightly regarded team until it whipped Illinois before the TV spectators last week, can establish itself more strongly by beating a high scoring Navy team in the day's top game on the Pacific Coast.

Wisconsin's coaching staff includes aides from six different schools.

Jesse Owens still holds five Western Conference track records.

Giants Receive Record Series Shares $11,147

New York, Oct. 8 (AP) — Both the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians cut up record World Series shares this year. Twenty-eight Giants, plus their trainer and clubhouse attendant, received $11,147.90 each, while each Indian collected $6,712.50.

Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick announced the breakdown yesterday. The full Giants' share was $2,867.22 more than the previous record of the New York Yankees of 1953. The Indians, who distributed 35½ shares, also set a record for a loser.

All told, the players' share of the receipts came to $881,763.72, an all-time high. Included was $83,000 for a pregame World Series TV program. The players get 60 per cent of the receipts for the first four games with 70 per cent going to the competing teams.

The Giants' split included a full share to bonus rookie Joe Almafitano, who didn't get to bat until the final week of the season.

Spud Goldstein, the Indians' travelling secretary, was given a full share, but the National League rules prohibit the inclusion of such employes. Instead, they get a cash bonus.

Seixas, Trabert, Ham Richardson Davis Cup Squad

New York, Oct. 8 (AP)—The United States again will pin its hopes on Vic Seixas and Tony Trabert to take the Davis Cup back from Australia this year.

The Davis Cup Selection Committee yesterday named the American champion and Trabert along with Hamilton Richardson, the intercollegiate champion from Baton Rouge, La. Bill Talbert again was named non-playing captain.

There also is a possibility that two younger players will be sent along for experience in international competition. If the United States Lawn Tennis Assn. follows the recommendation of the committee, the two youngsters will be named later.

The Americans first must get past Sweden in the interzone final at Brisbane, Dec. 16-18. Then the winner will play Australia in the challenge round Dec. 27-29.

Seixas and Trabert handled the chores for the United States last year when Australia kept the coveted mug by a 3-2 count. Seixas lost two singles and Trabert one.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By WARREN PAGE
(Shooting Editor)

The numbers .222 on the latest varmint cartridge don't mean a thing. Nowhere on the cartridge, its bullet or the gun that fires it is there a significant measurement of .222 of an inch.

But the new little varmint popper, which is a true .22 in that it drives a bullet .224 inches in diameter through a barrel .219 inches across the lands, certainly has come to mean plenty to shooters the country over. I doubt that any cartridge has caught the rifleman's fancy so quickly.

THERE ARE a lot of people interested in varmint-hunting these days. So many are so well-equipped with accurate rifles and super-accurate scope sights that the smart ones are beginning to exercise their own conservation measures, even on such useless and pestiferous varmints as crows and assorted relatives of the woodchuck.

I first met the little .222 before it had been released to the public eye. With the designer from the Remington plant who had nursed the idea along we tried the only two rifles then built for it on woodchucks in upper New York state. We popped the clover-chewers at 100 yards, at 200, even at 300 and the farmers whose fields were being cut by the chucks were pleased.

BUT THE bullet and its velocity at that time didn't quite please us, so back the .222 went into the laboratory for a final revamping before it was turned over to the shooters—a varmint load whose 50 grain bullet sails along at 3,200 feet per second.

That makes the youngster fastest of all the .22 centerfires except the .220 Swift, top speedster of all. It's rightly called a 250-yard varmint cartridge. That is, a moderately expert rifleman should surely fix the chuck out at 250 yards so that no longer is he a menace to the truck farmer whose spinach Senor Sod-Poddle has been chewing.

Nears Record

Yonkers, Oct. 8 (AP)—Billy Haughton needs only one more victory to set a new one-year record for harness racing drivers. The 30-year-old reinsman drove two winners at Yonkers Raceway last night to equal the present national mark of 129. He scored with Quick Chief and Bluett Hanover.

Why Stubborn Men Make Good Bourbon

by
J. P. Van Winkle
President
Stitzel-Weller
(Old Fitzgerald)
Distillery
Louisville, Kentucky
Established 1849

A share-cropper in our home county got to wondering one time who was the bigger jackass, himself or his mule.

The mule ate half the crop. Yet the farmer, plowing his corn patch on two legs, covered every step the critter took, and figured he worked twice as hard per leg!

It's no secret that us old-time distillers go to twice the trouble to make genuine Kentucky Sour Mash Bourbon.

We clean our grains not once, but again and again—then take considerable pains to grind them just right—not too coarse, not too fine.

We spend three full hours cooking our mashes in open tubs without pressure or haste to get the full sweet flavor of Nature's wholesome grains.

We season our fermenters with a portion of the previous day's run, then let them ripen at "mule pace" for 72 to 96 hours.

Our pedigreed sweet yeast is freshly prepared each day—on a family recipe that might try the patience of Job.

We distill, then redistill, in our old-fashioned type still and doubler which are set to yield not the highest proof but the soundest bourbon.

Our new white oak aging barrels are extra heavy and deeply charred for the reason that this "flavor proofing" at the still makes Father Time work harder "per leg" to bottle-ripen our whiskey.

In fact, through my 62 years in this business, we've been downright mulish in sticking to the one old-fashioned sour mash method which first brought fame to Kentucky bourbon.

If you are one who believes there is no short cut to perfection, you may wish to join the inner circle of business executives who have discovered our OLD FITZGERALD, and find it good business to share, in moderation, with associates and friends.

A galaxy of present and former major league baseball stars will meet the Newburgh Dodger Jewels in an exhibition game Sunday at 2 p. m., at Recreation Park in Newburgh.

Heading the list is Gil Hodges, home run slugger of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Sam Dente and Bill Glynn, utility infielders of the Cleveland Indians and Al Corwin, New York Giant relief pitcher, are also scheduled.

The remainder of the major league lineup features:

Cal Abrams, Baltimore Orioles.

Gene Hermanski, ex-Dodger and Cub, now with Oakland Oaks of the Pacific Coast League.

Eddie Sanicki, 1950 Philadelphia Whiz Kids outfield reserve.

Ralph Houck, New York Yankee coach.

Dick Brodowski, Boston Red Sox rookie pitcher ace.

Buddy Kerr, former Giant and Brave shortstop, now with Minneapolis.

SIX OTHER major and minor league stars will be added to the roster before Sunday's game.

Al Corwin, who resides in Orange county, will star for the major leaguers. The Jewels expect to star Joe Bayno, sensational southpaw who pitched a no-hit, no-run game against Poughkeepsie in the Sen. Desmond trophy series. He has been signed to a Brooklyn Dodger contract.

On hand also, but in the role of witnesses will be nearly 1,000 Little Leaguers from Orange, Sullivan, Dutchess and Ulster county.

Business Manager William D. Ryan, of the Dodger Jewels, who is promoting the contest, sent out 960 free tickets to Little Leaguers in those counties last week.

Harold Johnson Boxes Tonight

Philadelphia, Oct. 8 (AP)—Harold Johnson, bidding for his seventh shot at lightheavyweight champion Archie Moore, and "Boardwalk Billy" Smith, seeking his fifth bout with the elderly champ, meet tonight for the first time in a 10-round fight at the Arena.

Johnson, rated No. 1 contender for Moore's title, is quoted as a 14-5 favorite here in his hometown. His last outing was in a championship scrap Aug. 11 when, with victory within his reach, he was knocked out by Moore.

That snapped a 12-bout winning streak for Johnson, whose record is now 48 wins and six defeats. Five defeats were at Moore's hands and the other was a knockout loss to former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott.

The Detroit Red Wings served notice they are ready to go after an unprecedented seventh straight league title by defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 as the National Hockey League opened its 38th season last night.

In the only other game, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, with two goals and two assists, powered the Montreal Canadians to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks.

It was the earliest opening in the history of the league and initiated a 70-game schedule that extends through March 20. All six teams will see action tomorrow night with Chicago at Toronto, Boston at Montreal and New York at Detroit.

The numbers .222 on the latest varmint cartridge don't mean a thing. Nowhere on the cartridge, its bullet or the gun that fires it is there a significant measurement of .222 of an inch.

But the new little varmint popper, which is a true .22 in that it drives a bullet .224 inches in diameter through a barrel .219 inches across the lands, certainly has come to mean plenty to shooters the country over. I doubt that any cartridge has caught the rifleman's fancy so quickly.

THERE ARE a lot of people interested in varmint-hunting these days. So many are so well-equipped with accurate rifles and super-accurate scope sights that the smart ones are beginning to exercise their own conservation measures, even on such useless and pestiferous varmints as crows and assorted relatives of the woodchuck.

I first met the little .222 before it had been released to the public eye. With the designer from the Remington plant who had nursed the idea along we tried the only two rifles then built for it on woodchucks in upper New York state. We popped the clover-chewers at 100 yards, at 200, even at 300 and the farmers whose fields were being cut by the chucks were pleased.

BUT THE bullet and its velocity at that time didn't quite please us, so back the .222 went into the laboratory for a final revamping before it was turned over to the shooters—a varmint load whose 50 grain bullet sails along at 3,200 feet per second.

That makes the youngster fastest of all the .22 centerfires except the .220 Swift, top speedster of all. It's rightly called a 250-yard varmint cartridge. That is, a moderately expert rifleman should surely fix the chuck out at 250 yards so that no longer is he a menace to the truck farmer whose spinach Senor Sod-Poddle has been chewing.

Nears Record

Yonkers, Oct. 8 (AP)—Billy Haughton needs only one more victory to set a new one-year record for harness racing drivers. The 30-year-old reinsman drove two winners at Yonkers Raceway last night to equal the present national mark of 129. He scored with Quick Chief and Bluett Hanover.

Harold Johnson Boxes Tonight

Philadelphia, Oct. 8 (AP)—Harold Johnson, bidding for his seventh shot at lightheavyweight champion Archie Moore, and "Boardwalk Billy" Smith, seeking his fifth bout with the elderly champ, meet tonight for the first time in a 10-round fight at the Arena.

Johnson, rated No. 1 contender for Moore's title, is quoted as a 14-5 favorite here in his hometown. His last outing was in a championship scrap Aug. 11 when, with victory within his reach, he was knocked out by Moore.

That snapped a 12-bout winning streak for Johnson, whose record is now 48 wins and six defeats. Five defeats were at Moore's hands and the other was a knockout loss to former heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott.

Red Wings Trip Leafs in Opener

(By The Associated Press)

The Detroit Red Wings served notice they are ready to go after an unprecedented seventh straight league title by defeating the Toronto Maple Leafs 2-1 as the National Hockey League opened its 38th season last night.

In the only other game, Maurice (The Rocket) Richard, with two goals and two assists, powered the Montreal Canadians to a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Blackhawks.

It was the earliest opening in the history of the league and initiated a 70-game schedule that extends through March 20. All six teams will see action tomorrow night with Chicago at Toronto, Boston at Montreal and New York at Detroit.

Four Boys Confess

Watertown, Oct. 8 (AP)—Four high school boys have confessed that they threw tomatoes Tuesday night at Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican candidate for governor of New York. Principal Albert B. School of Watertown High School said yesterday the boys had given him a signed statement apologizing to Ives for the "thoughtless act." Ives, whose reaction Tuesday night was that the tomatoes "came by indirection straight from Tammany Hall," the Democratic camp in Manhattan, told a newsman in Auburn that the boys were "wholly forgiven." The tomatoes did not hit Ives. Some juice splattered his wife and spotted Ives' hat.

Four Boys Confess

Watertown, Oct. 8 (AP)—Four high school boys have confessed that they threw tomatoes Tuesday night at Sen. Irving M. Ives, Republican candidate for governor of New York. Principal Albert B. School of Watertown High School said yesterday the boys had given him a signed statement apologizing to Ives for the "thoughtless act." Ives, whose reaction Tuesday night was that the tomatoes "came by indirection straight from Tammany Hall," the Democratic camp in Manhattan, told a newsman in Auburn that the boys were "wholly forgiven." The tomatoes did not hit Ives. Some juice splattered his wife and spotted Ives' hat.

Pleasant Weather Prevails in Nation

(By The Associated Press)

Fairly pleasant autumn weather was the outlook for most of the country today.

There were some spots, but showers generally were light. Showers spread northeastward from the central plains during the night and rainfall was reported over most of the upper Mississippi valley. There also were showers in the central Rockies, scattered thundershowers along the southeast coast and in Texas and more general rain in western Washington. The most devastating flood in years in southeastern New Mexico, caused at least four deaths.

Temperatures tumbled from 8 to 20 degrees in the eastern third of the nation today but there was some warming in prospect for the midwest after several days of cool weather.

IBM'S NEW EXPERIMENTAL computer is composed of a high-speed punching unit, left, and the transistorized calculating unit at right. The calculating unit is uncovered to show the bank of printed wiring panels on which the transistors are mounted. This "all transistor" unit is approximately one-half the size and requires only 5 per cent as much power to operate as a vacuum tube unit of comparable capacity. This is believed to be the first fully-operative transistorized computer complete with automatic input and output.

Hill Is Admitted To N. Y. State Bar

JOSEPH D. HILL

Joseph D. Hill of 91-b Fairmont avenue, formerly of Rosendale, was notified Wednesday by the State Board of Law Examiners that he had passed the New York State Bar examination, which was held last June. He will appear before the Appellate Division in Albany on November 11 to be sworn in for final admission to practice.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Hill of James street, Rosendale, he attended Kingston High School from which he was graduated with the class of 1947. He was graduated from Fordham University, Bronx, in 1951 and on June 1, 1954, was graduated from Albany Law School.

Attorney Hill will maintain offices at 276 Fair street for the general parctice of law in association with the firm of Flanagan and Ortale.

In July of this year he was married to June Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ellis Briggs of this city.

New Computer Is Demonstrated

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 8 (AP)—Tiny transistors — more than 2,200 of them—are used in the computing unit for a new experimental calculator demonstrated yesterday by International Business Machines Corp.

The computor using the transistors—midget crystal amplifying devices—takes up only half the space and uses only about five per cent as much electric power as a camparable vacuum tube unit, the company said.

THE NEW MACHINE is comparable to IBM's type 604 electric calculator, which uses 1,250 vacuum tubes. About 2,000 are in use.

The transistors, besides saving space and electric power, also have much longer life and should reduce maintenance requirements, IBM officials said.

The experimental model also uses printed circuits to replace much of the conventional wiring required in a computer.

Roosevelt Plans Kingston Visit

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. Democratic-Liberal nominee for attorney general, will follow a pattern set by his late father when he opens an upstate campaign tour here Wednesday.

He will speak from an automobile in front of the Nelson House as the former president always did in his campaigns for the governorship and the presidency.

A new broom will be presented to Roosevelt by Joseph F. Hawkins, Dutchess county Democratic chairman, as a symbol of Democratic efforts toward a "clean sweep" in the Nov. 2 election.

Roosevelt, who will drive to Poughkeepsie from his farm in nearby Poughquag, will carry the broom with him on the rest of his upstate tour.

From Poughkeepsie, he will go to Kingston for a luncheon meeting.

Roosevelt's headquarters in New York said the rest of his itinerary will not be available before tomorrow.

Final Registration Days

Friday and Saturday are the final days of registration for the November 2 general election. Polls will be open Friday from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and on Saturday from 7 a. m. to 10 p. m. If you fail to register this week, you lose your vote.

New Computer Is Demonstrated

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 8 (AP)—Tiny transistors — more than 2,200 of them—are used in the computing unit for a new experimental calculator demonstrated yesterday by International Business Machines Corp.

The computor using the transistors—midget crystal amplifying devices—takes up only half the space and uses only about five per cent as much electric power as a camparable vacuum tube unit, the company said.

THE NEW MACHINE is comparable to IBM's type 604 electric calculator, which uses 1,250 vacuum tubes. About 2,000 are in use.

The transistors, besides saving space and electric power, also have much longer life and should reduce maintenance requirements, IBM officials said.

The experimental model also uses printed circuits to replace much of the conventional wiring required in a computer.

Roosevelt Plans Kingston Visit

Poughkeepsie, Oct. 8 (AP)—Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. Democratic-Liberal nominee for attorney general, will follow a pattern set by his late father when he opens an upstate campaign tour here Wednesday.

He will speak from an automobile in front of the Nelson House as the former president always did in his campaigns for the governorship and the presidency.

A new broom will be presented to Roosevelt by Joseph F. Hawkins, Dutchess county Democratic chairman, as a symbol of Democratic efforts toward a "clean sweep" in the Nov. 2 election.

Roosevelt, who will drive to Poughkeepsie from his farm in nearby Poughquag, will carry the broom with him on the rest of his upstate tour.

From Poughkeepsie, he will go to Kingston for a luncheon meeting.

Roosevelt's headquarters in New York said the rest of his itinerary will not be available before tomorrow.
